DUBOIS LITIGANTS MARTYRS TO CIVIC PRIDE

PRESIDENT SIGNS BRITISH REFUND MEASURE TODAY

Way Clear for Drawing
Up of Contract, After
Which Payments to U.
S. Will Begin.

BIG TRANSACTION

Washington, D. C. Feb. 28.—President Harding today signed the bill providing for the acceptance of the British debt settlement.

The way is now clear for drawing up a formal contract between the two nations embodying the terms for paying the greatest international debt in history. Following these formalities Great Britain is expected to make an immediate cash payment of about four million dollars and then follow during the year with payments totalling about one hundred sixty-one million dollars.

Bonds of huge dimension will be printed as part of the funding program. The terms agreed upon by the British-American Debt Commission and now ratified by Congress call for payment of the four billion, six hundred million dollar debt in sixty-two years, the interest rate during the first ten years is to be three per cent with three and one half per cent thereafter.

Should Great Britain not pay the amount in sixty-two years, her total payment to this Government would be approximately ten billion dollars.

Mrs. Buzzi Grilled Severely By Police In Murder Probing

New York, Feb. 28.—Mrs. Anna Buzzi, aged thirty, pretty Russian divorcee, held in twenty-five thousand bail as a material witness in the case, was questioned today, police stated, about love affairs of Frederick Schneider, slain millionaire contractor.

The woman, of statuesque type and immaculately groomed when she first made her appearance in court, was disheveled and hysterical in the Bronx County Jail. She wept and cried for "Sweetheart Fred to come and tell them all about it."

THEY START 'EM YOUNG EVIDENTLY IN DETROIT, MICH

Detroit, Feb. 28.—Five school boys between twelve and fourteen are held by county officials today on charges of violating the Volstead Act. Three of the youths are accused of attempting to smuggle "white rye" into the county jail to prisoners while the other two are said to have been captured while bringing a load of beer over the ice from Canada to Ecorse.

FAVORABLE REPORT ON CRISSINGER

Washington, D. C. Feb. 28.—The nomination of D. R. Crissinger of Marion, Ohio, to be head of the Federal Reserve Board was ordered favorably reported without opposition by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee today.

Washington, Feb. 28.—A definite decision not to bring the question of American participation in the International Court of Justice before the Senate at this session was reached at a conference this morning at the White House between President Harding and Senator Lodge, Massachusetts Republican leader.

NEW GAME LICENSE VERY LIKELY WILL COST AT LEAST $1.50

Game Commission Said
to Incline to Raise In Price in Order to Better Stock the State.

ASK RETURN CARDS

Harrisburg, Feb. 28. (United Press)—The House Game Committee renewed its hearing on the proposed Game Code today.

Chief among the features of the Code to stimulate both support and opposition was the proposed increase in hunters' license fees from $1.00 to $1.50. Last week the Committee voted to eliminate the increase and then voted to reconsider the question at this week's meeting.

The Game Commission which had taken a neutral position on the question of the 50 cent increase until recently today stood strongly for the proposal.

"The increase in the resident fee was not definitely decided upon until after the special report of the Citizens' Committee was made public recently," said a statement from the Game Commission which was among the data laid before the Game Committee at this meeting today. "Demands for more game and refugees came pouring in from all sides. This increase would make it possible to almost double the service to Pennsylvania's sportsmen."

Another feature of the Game Code which was to undergo considerable discussion today was the proposal to provide for a compulsory game report. At present hunters are requested to return a report of game killed during the season, using the stub of the license for that purpose. The Game Commission, according to its statement today, has opposed the proposal to make the return of this stub compulsory. It was announced, however, that only 20,000 reports out of the 475,000 licenses issued were returned by hunters this year. Among other sportsmen's organizations the Conservation Council recommended that the return of this report be required by law.

SHIMMYING STAR HAS ASTRONOMERS GUESSING HARD

Williams Bay, Wis., Feb. 28.—Terrific upheaval in the Star Beta Theta has increased its size from two to three, times scientists at the Yerkes Observatory of the University of Chicago declared today.

All instruments used in astral observation were turned on the phenomena. It is visible here by daylight for only a short time in the late afternoon. Because of the movement of the earth it is difficult to get a good view.

Thompson Political Machine In Chicago Smashed In Primary

Chicago, Feb. 28.—The powerful political machine built up in Chicago under the guidance of Mayor Wm. Hale Thompson was finally shattered at Tuesday's municipal primaries.

Edward Litsinger, candidate for mayor with the bulk of the backing of the Thompson-Fred Lundin organization was defeated by Arthur C. Leander, who was supported by the Senator McCormick-Brundage combine.

Mrs. G. N. Ellenberger and daughter Lottie are visiting the former's daughter, Mrs. Livingston, in Altoona this week.

OLD AGE PENSION UP BEFORE STATE SENATE THIS WEEK

Bill Fostered by Big Fraternal Organization
Provides For Dollar a
Day to Those Over 70.

WELL SUPPORTED

Harrisburg, Feb. 28. (U. P.) The State Senate was expected to act this week on the Vanc bill granting assistance of not more than $1 a day to the aged.

This measure is the culmination of six years effort to work out in Pennsylvania a policy of "old age pensions" according to James H. Maurer, president of the State Federation of Labor, who was chairman of the commission of 1917 which was created by a resolution introduced by Governor Sproul, then Senator from Delaware county.

The bill was drafted by the Fraternal Order of Eagles and the State Federation of Labor. It follows largely the plan laid down in the report of the Old Age Pension Commission. Several changes to meet existing conditions were made at the request of Chairman Maurer.

In brief the legislation provides for: 1. Creation of a commission of three to administer the act and appoint a superintendent who receives a salary.

2. Appropriation of $2,000,000 to carry out the provisions.

3. Assistance to "deserving citizens" who have reached 70 years of age and upwards and who have been 15 years residents of Pennsylvania to the amount of $1 a day.

4. Anyone having an income of less than $1 a day with property not exceeding $5,000 valuation qualifying. The method of payment to the aged who are entitled to assistance has been worked out so that a fixed sum of $1 a day is guaranteed. It is explained in this way: "Those whose income from all sources amounts to less than $1 a day should receive a sum from the state which would bring their income up to that amount."

"Only those who have no income whatsoever would be allowed the full amount."

"A person who already has an income of $1 a day or more would not be entitled but those with an income of but $5 a week or 50 cents a day or less would be entitled to the additional to make a dollar a day."

ATHLETES OF THE C. H. S. GRIDIRON BANQUETTED AT JORDAN BY FANS WHO APPRECIATE THEIR WONDERFUL WORK

Letter Men, 2nd Squad, School Board, Coaches
and Officials are Included In One of the Greatest School Events Ever Held In This City

THE "RED AND BLACK" SPIRIT RAN HIGH

Clearfield's peerless football machine with its many cogs, gears, cams and parts, drive shaft and all, knows perfectly well today that, although the football season is now better than three months past, the memories of a successful season left an impress on the minds of their loyal followers that time cannot erase.

One of the finest layouts of food and most magnificent arrangements of table and covers ever arranged in Clearfield was set before the members of the team and the hard working officials and supporters last evening at the Jordan, through the generosity and loyalty of a few fans who wanted to show their appreciation of a job well done.

The committee in charge, Walter Flegel, Ralph Jordan, C. T. Kurtz and W. H. Wilson, could not have functioned more perfectly. The room was handsomely decorated in the school colors, the favors were novel and appropriate, the atmosphere was one of the good spirit and loyalty, fair play and jollity, the dinner was "the best ever" with spring chicken, corn on the cob (real, be-kosh) and a lot of other things that fit right into the bread basket of "rain" colts and "New" made no effort to hold them.

Rockwell's orchestra was on hand early to dine and when the big show started they tuned in with the finest music ever broadcasted.

When Toastmaster "Pop" Wilson called the boys to order and gave the signal to tackle low and spare no bones those who were fortunately present as observers and recorders saw a brief period of intensive scrimmage in which the opposition represented by the tables were completely cleaned up.

Of course no such dinner is complete without speeches and certainly last night's affair would not have been complete without the fine things the fans had to say of the boys who are Clearfield's pride at present and its hope in the future.

Mr. Wilson, a loyal football fan and an ardent friend of red blooded sportsmanship made one of the finest addresses those boys will ever listen to and in order that they may read it again, and carry its lesson through life with them, and in order that every young man of C. H. S. might read and profit thereby, we procured the document and with pleasure print it herewith as follows:

"We are gathered here tonight to recognize, and eulogize, and entertain our 1922 Foot Ball Team. I admit it is rather late in the season but better late than never. Our Team worked hard in practice, and played hard in all kinds of weather, without thought of self. They worked as a unit, and no one can say they saw a yellow streak in any of them. They had the real fighting spirit, and I never admired them more, as a team, than when I saw that fighting and indomitable spirit showing the Saturday afternoon they played the Greensburg Team at Greensburg. A forlorn hope, and they knew it, but they never laid down for a minute. They were a badly battered and bruised lot of boys, but not discouraged—not in the least, and their games after that showed that same fighting spirit."

That same spirit applies to the second squad. It was the hard fight they put up in scrimmage that rounded out and perfected the plays of our regulars. They all worked hard, and for what purpose? For the honor of their school and their town.

Too much praise cannot be given the coaches who were out each day with the boys in practice, teaching them all the rules of the game, showing them how it should be played, and I think that they feel their labors were not in vain.

The officials of the game gave fair and unbiased decisions, although they had to step some to keep up with our team. They showed the true sporting spirit, and all congratulate them for their fairness.

Therefore, we, as citizens and boosters of Clearfield and as believers in reciprocity, welcome you at this dinner this evening, and we want you to know we are proud of the record you made—as a Foot-Ball team, and your conduct both on and off the field. You gave your best for the honor of the school you represented, and for the town in which you live. Some of you will graduate this year, and whether you enter a school for higher education, or select a business career, or continue at school here, always keep this point in mind—Be Patriotic. What your country needs at this time, and will continue to need, is men that are physically strong, men who are mentally alert, and men who are morally straight. We feel that these attributes are embodied in all of you, or you would not have succeeded in the majority of the games you played. Therefore, we want you to play the game of "Life" in the same way. Remember to "seek the truth and live it"; follow the immortal words of Washington "Young though you be, you are the elder brothers of the ignorant; let your conduct be an example to them. You can help your country more by your moral attitude, than by your opinion. Your opinion will pass away, for "we know in part and prophesy in part." Creeds have lived and died, dynasties have risen and fallen again, laws have been made and trampled underfoot, but the constant tendency of the universe and all it contains is to conform more and more to TRUTH.

There once lived a painter who in his declining years when his hair was white and his hand feeble, desired before he died to put upon his canvas the picture of the Conception of his brain. It was his ideal; it would be if completed, his masterpiece. Week after week, and month after month, as the days went by, he stood by his easel in patient toil, with here and there a stroke of the brush and the blending of a color. At length, after one last feeble touch, the brush dropped from his hand and he fell to the floor—the painter was dead; but his picture was finished.

Persistence and application conquers all things. Don't be selfish. To preserve self, thought and interest must be projected outside of self. Nor will it answer simply to talk about Good Will. No one is fed if I farm experts simply TALK about growing wheat.

The word "Education" reminds me that "a man can be a fool in seven different languages," and wise in only one, which isn't saying anything against real education, which is, in my opinion, adequate preparation to perform some useful function in life; not a lot of "book learning about dead myths and false history, for most history is false—written to please the ruling class of the time it was written, and not in accord with economic or real historic facts. Spencer says "The most important thing is not the quantity of knowledge that a man has taken in and can pour out again, but the ability he shows to use the knowledge he

GOT GOOD OUTFIT

Benny Hansard, a gentleman of color or who has been hanging around the East End for some time, has again allowed his fondness for other people's glad rags to get him into trouble, also into jail.

Along in December Hansard or George Thomas, as he now calls himself, inserted his ebony carcass into the Sunday-go-to-meetin' suit of a fellow boarder at the boarding house where he held up, and then beat it for Baltimore to keep a tryst with a dusky sweetheart. Chief of Police McMullen had Hansard picked off the train at Tyrone and he was brought back and placed in jail.

Hansard gained his liberty three or four weeks ago and on Monday afternoon got into the dressing room of the employees of the Clearfield tannery and fitted himself out in the street clothes of two or three of them and again beat it. Supt. Menzel enlisted the services of the police department and Chief McMullen and Officer Woolridge rounded up the clothes grabber in a house down in Wrigley Addition and Hansard or Thomas is once more a guest of Sheriff Lowell in "Bugville."

BELLEFONTE MEN WILL GET HEARING AT WILLIAMSPORT

Alleged Offense Was Committed In Eastern
District and Local Officer Could Not Act.

CAR IS STILL HELD

The hearing scheduled before United States Commissioner J. P. O'Laughlin of Arnot Woodson, colored chauffeur for Gordon Montgomery of Bellefonte on a charge of violation of the Volstead Act, went up in smoke when it was found that the alleged offense was committed in Centre county, a part of the middle district of Pennsylvania, while Clearfield county and Commissioner O'Laughlin are affiliated with and a part of the western district.

As a result of this geographical fact all that Commissioner O'Laughlin could do was to take a renewal of Woodson's $1,000 bail for his appearance before U. S. Commissioner Crocker at Williamsport on Friday morning next at 11 o'clock.

Montgomery, owner of the car in which the chauffeur and his synthetic gin were caught at Bellefonte early Saturday morning, with his attorney John G. Love, Jr., was on hand for the hearing. He offered to give bond for the seized car, a special Studebaker six, but Prohibition Agent N. M. Crease, of the Punxsy division headquarters, refused to accept the bond or release the car pending the arrival of Division Head Hazeltine, who will pass upon that proposition. The arrest of Gordon Montgomery for violation of the Volstead Act will hinge upon the testimony adduced at the hearing before Commissioner Crocker on Friday morning. Both Woodson and Montgomery are under bail on a charge of having violated the Woner Act.

F. S. Woodling of Woodland transferred business in Clearfield Tuesday.

FINIS IS WRITTEN

Sacrificing themselves and their opinions of each other upon the altar of city pride, public policy and civic righteousness, Messrs. Jeffrey and Carson, whose little two-year-old difficulty came to an inglorious but satisfactory ending in criminal court at noon today, return to the third class city of DuBois both occupying position of martyr to the public weal and general good.

As we note above, the evidence of the prosecution in the case of Carson vs. Jeffrey, which difficulty appears to have all classes of citizens in DuBois by the ears, was closed last evening before court adjourned for the day and the friends of each side repaired to the temple of justice this morning with the ringing of the Court House bell, prepared to sit through the "stone wall" defense Jeffrey and his attorneys have long claimed they had to the charges made against the police officer.

The "nothing doing" sign was hung out by Court Crier Curley for the general public to take note of while "behind the scenes" in the law library the opposing attorneys were cheek by jowl attempting to bring order out of the chaos of the situation existing. Emissaries from the opposing camps were passing almost minutely to and fro while those accustomed to such things in the ordinary case quickly saw that something was "adoin' al-rightly."

The lawyers and the supporters of either side worked like Trojans and supposed to have wrought, while the impatient witnesses and spectators marked time. Finally pills as big as billiard balls, more or less sugar-coated were prepared for the principals, the Court was informed that she was now working and the session was opened at 11:10 a. m.

To the surprise of all but those on the inside, Banker B. M. Martin of the Union Trust Company, and a Jeffrey

Runaways Held At Punxsy Didn't Run Away At All

Is this the district attorney's office? The voice was agitated and the party answering the phone had visions of a double murder.

"Yes mam."

"Well, this is Mrs. Blankety Blank. My daughter is preparing to run away from home in company with another girl and I want her stopped." Then she poured a lot of details into the telephone. The police were notified and an officer sent to watch the midnight train for Pittsburgh.

Just before the train started to leave the depot two young ladies stepped forth and were about to mount to the platform when the officer brushed them back with his arm. "Not tonight, ladies." He then escorted them to Gieckler's hotel and kept watch most of the night to see that they did not escape.

This morning he learned that the girls did not attempt to leave home and that the girls detained were young ladies from DuBois, who were exceedingly anxious to get home.

GASPS OF THE DYING CONGRESS

Many Say Farewell To Official Life As Congress Prepares To Go Home

By LAWRENCE MARTIN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 28. (United Press.)—Farewells to the political life of Washington are now being said by a comparatively large group of the outstanding men in Congressional life during the last decade.

Some were going back home at the order of the voters. Others just decided to quit.

Here is the list of those voluntarily retiring is the veteran "Uncle Joe" Cannon, a member for 46 years.

Another notable figure who will pass off the stage here is "Joe" Fordney, Rep. Campbell, Kan., who has worked of Michigan, chairman of the House, up to the chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee, who's rules committee. Sores of has served 12 continuous terms.

House Republican Leader Mondell, having failed to win election to the senate, retires after 13 consecutive terms.

Then there are those Senate veterans—Culberson, Tex., McCumber, N. D., who have served since 1899.

Page Vt., who has been here since 1908; John Sharp Williams, Hitchcock, Townsend and Poindexter, who have served since 1911, and several others who are leaving after one term.

The House also will lose its Veterans' dry legislator, Rep. Volstead and for some men the curtain which marks the finish of the great drama in which they have been actors.

"Are you sorry to go?" was the question put to men like Hitchcock.

Pomerene, John Sharpe Williams—who retires voluntarily—McCumber, Poindexter and New.

"Yes and no," said Senator Hitchcock, who leaves behind him the memory of a charming personality, a great friendliness and marked ability. "Of course, it is a wrench to give up the life to which one has grown accustomed. But it is something to have lived that life, and even when a man is beginning to get old, there is spice in variety. It will be good to watch, just as it was good to be in there trying to help."

"Sorry?" said John Sharpe Williams. Not a bit of it. Only sorry I didn't do it before. Of course, there are friends I will miss, but they will be friends still."

Glad or Sorry?

Senator Pomerene smiled. Pomerene came to the Senate with a reputation for being scarcely human, in the sense that he was considered cold and withdrawn from common mortals. No one around the Senate found him that, but instead a friendly, genial man with a ready smile.

"You remember," he said, "that you wrote a story one time about my political motto being 'You never can tell'?" Well, that's true; you never can tell exactly whether you are going to be glad or sorry. I will be decidedly glad to get back to my law books. I've had my little share of the senate's work, and for that I am glad."

It was so with all of them. If they felt disappointment over being defeated in the election, they did not show it. "It is the fortune of war to men in politics everywhere," was their attitude.

Not one of these senators would say a word about expectations of returning some time to the senate. Younger men are forging ahead, and it is not often that senators return.

In the House, where the term is but two years as against the senate's six, the case is different. There the partings are less seriously taken, or after all, in two years the men who go out tomorrow may be back.

Origin of "Politics"

A person who lies long in bed is likely to be lacking in energy and probably a coward. A modern word meaning a coward means a dastard, but originally only a sluggard and is derived from the Italian poltro, a bed. Another relative is German polster, a cushion from which we get bolster.

Indubitably.

The best way to silence conscience is to obey its dictates.—Boston Free Press Transcript.

THE LIFE OF A CONGRESS

Washington Feb. 28. (United Press.)—When does congress expire by constitutional limitation, March 3 or March 4?

This question has arisen with respect to the present congress, because leaders planned to hold a session tomorrow Sunday, March 4, to complete the work of the congress. Under this plan, the adjournment would come at noon, March 4, instead of midnight, March 3, he time generally accepted as the constitutional limit.

But the advocates of the March 4 proposition have dug up a precedent. In 1851, at midnight on March 3, Senator Jefferson Davis of Mississippi, Lewis Cass, of Michigan and James M. Mason, of Virginia, raised the point that the congress had expired, and that their terms of office had ended. They declined to vote on matters coming up after that hour.

A long discussion followed, ended with adoption of a resolution presented by Senator Yulee, Florida, which read:

Resolved, That in the opinion of the senate, the present congress does not expire by constitutional limitation until meridian (noon) of the fourth of March.

Moriarty's agents, the Lartabees, kidnap Alice. Holmes effects an entrance to the Lartabee house and by a clever ruse discovers where the letters are hidden. His interest in Alice prevents him from taking them until they are given freely.

Moriarty is frustrated everywhere by the great Sherlock Holmes. Thru elaborate measures he corners the detective alone but Holmes is too fast and the tables are turned.

Later Holmes is decoyed to a gas house where he faces almost certain death with Alice. By quick strategy he escapes with the girl and the letters. He sets a snare for Moriarty against whom convicting evidence is obtained for the first time.

The detective's interest in Alice has become more than merely professional and now he finds that though he has won his case he has lost his heart.

The cast is without a doubt the best all around combination of stars ever grouped in this kind of film.

We want you to take a personal interest in the community in which you live. You are building now. You are building your bodies and minds and ideals and moral character. If you succeed, later on you will build better homes, better schools, better cities and better States. You must build in strength of limb as well as in mortar and stone; in strength of mind as well as in masonry; in beauty of thought as well as in beauty of architecture.

And withal you must go to your work humbly and thoughtfully, for at best we are not skilled artisans, nor master builders, but merely earnest, willing workmen who would do our part well and who wish to be proud of the part we play."

FUNERAL OF MISS HEWITT

Funeral services over the body of Miss Georgianna Hewitt of Punxsutawney, Pa., who died at New Haven, Conn., from poisoning, were held here Monday afternoon at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. C. B. DeBeque, of Ogden avenue. Burial was made at Hillcrest. A very large delegation of friends attended from Punxsutawney. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. C. Stuart Kitchen, rector of Christ-Episcopal church of Punxsutawney assisted by the Rev. Horace Lincoln Jacobs of this city. Beautiful selections were rendered by Mrs. J. M. Gallaher and Mrs. Keith Davis. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful.

The New Haven Journal-Courier carried a front page, full column article on the death of Miss Hewitt which gave testimony to the high esteem in which the young lady was held by that city where she had been appearing before the public for many months. It says that fully 2,000 men, women and children called at the chapel to pay their last respects to the popular actress.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmothers' mustard plaster, without the blister.

Musterole is a clean white ointment made of oil of mustard and castor oil. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, contusions, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite, colds of all sorts. Seldom fails to deliver results. 25c and 50c jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.00. Better than a mustard plaster.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft texture and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

WILL USE CLEARFIELD BRICK

The University of Michigan has been getting some pretty good material from Clearfield the past few years and when they decided to erect a new Field House an inquiry was made by the trustees in charge as to the quality of Clearfield's famous clay products. By direction of F. Cortes Bell, Esq., a "Michiganander" himself, the purchasing agent dropped in at the Paterson Clay Products plant and when he left had arranged with Manager Paterson to secure 250,000 Paterson brick for the new building.

DAINTY WORK For IDLE HANDS

By HEDDA HOYT

Fashion Editor for the United Press
(Written for the United Press)

New York, Feb. 28. (United Press)

The days when women were content to while their time away upon hand embroidered towels and bed linens have departed, but the urge of our ancestors, who knitted the family socks, made the family home-spuns and wove their own carpets, is inborn in many of us and we can not sit idle with empty hands.

Hand work is one of the most expensive luxuries one can buy today and there are numerous ways one can apply it to the summer frock without much labor.

For instance, the summer dresses of French voile can be made into such charming affairs with a little hand work. I saw one among the imports to a fashionable shop which would be well worth copying. The material was a beautiful shade of grayish blue voile, handstitched in rose color, and worn over a slip of rose voile. Placing one shade of voile over another is very new this year and extremely effective.

The skirt had a wide border effect of hemstitching, extending up as far as the knees. Threads were pulled out at intervals making spaces about an inch wide through which the rose underslip showed. It is very easy to pull threads in voile and the hemstitching was done in heavy rose silk cord.

Hemstitched Sleeves

The long waisted blouse was unhemstitched though the tiny puffed sleeves were entirely hemstitched. A satin sash of rose shade finished the low waistline and tied in a soft bow on the left hip.

Even the simple chain stitch does much to embellish the organdy or voile frock. I saw one such frock the other day made of yellow voile with interlacing circles worked in chain stitch, in a darker shade of yellow. Every five inches in the skirt were horizontal rows of these circles which graduated in size, being larger at the bottom of the skirt than at the top.

One can cut out paste board circles and with a soft lead pencil outline them on the skirt laying one over the other a tiny bit. By taking large stitches the work is effective and very quickly done.

The bodice of this frock continued the design of the skirt as far as the bust line leaving the top plain. The long full sleeves were chain-stitched from elbow to wrist where they were caught into narrow wrist bands. There was a sash of deep yellow matching the underslip.

Round handkerchiefs of colored linen with borders of white net edging are simply made and are pretty adjuncts to the spring frock.

Sweaters and Blouses

Slip-on sweaters embroidered in brush-wool, in contrasting colors about the bottom of the sweater, neck and cuffs are new and easily made. Those who like the plainer effects in sweaters will be interested in the collar and cuff sets of linen which are worn with the slip-ons. They are made of ecru linen and cross-stitched in peasant designs in several different shades which blend with the shade of the sweater.

The present fad for the monogrammed blouse is being taken up by New York college girls who are embroidering their initials on their spring blouses. Often the design completely covers the tiny pocket of the white crepe de chene blouse and upon close inspection one discovers that there are two sets of initials there—a girl's and a boy's.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, says a woman called at a lawyer's office in his town the other day and asked to have suit begun against a former lover for breach of promise.

"That man promised to marry me four times," she said, "but he hasn't kept his word, and my affections are all blighted."

"How much damage do you wish to claim?" asked the polite lawyer.

"Well, I was blighted four times, and I think one hundred dollars a blight is none too much."

So suit was entered for four hundred dollars for four blights.

The Pennsylvania game commission presents the following argument on the desirability of a "two-point buck" game law:

"In 1907 when does and fawns were first protected, there were only 200 legal deer killed in Pennsylvania. The refuge system was extended and stocked until now there are 31 refuges in operation, and the buck law and refuges together increased the deer until during the 1922 season 6115 legal male deer were killed. In some sections of the state the territory is so closely hunted that practically the only deer being killed are spikes and two-points. The carcasses of these deer are small, and but few of the heads are being mounted. In all of these, thickly hunted sections sportsmen are becoming discouraged, and are gradually crowding into sections not now so closely hunted. The result will be that in a short time deer territory not now closely hunted will be denuded of practically all the big bucks also, and hunting camps now enjoying almost absolute privacy will be surrounded by many other camps covering the same ground."

"In 1921 the game commission began a census of the antler growth for the purpose of securing information on the approximate age of the deer being killed. In the case of deer with more than spikes, the largest antler only was counted for classification purposes. This was condemned in 1922 also. The results of this tabulation are as follows:

	1921 Per.	1922 Per.
Legal Deer	638.13	1096.18
Spike bucks	792.16	1261.20
2 Points Antler	1244.26	1567.25
4 Points Antler	2156.45	2191.36
and larger
Total	4830	6115

"From the above it is clearly noticeable that the spikes and two point deer have increased very rapidly, while the percentage of deer with large racks of antlers is decreasing. The kill of does in 1921 was 213 and in 1922 was 207, while the kill of male deer with antlers less than 4 inches in length was 68 in 1921 and 62 in 1922. While the number of does and male fawns has not been reduced materially, in view of the larger number of hunters and greater number of deer killed, the results in that direction are not discouraging but there are still entirely too many illegal deer being killed."

"The sportsmen thruout the state generally are strongly in favor of the proposed change in the deer law under which it would be illegal to kill a deer of any kind until it has at least two points to one antler, regardless whether there is any antler on the other side or not. Under this provision spike bucks would be protected altho there is a safety feature as a protection to honest sportsmen which provides that a deer with an antler eight or more inches long without prongs shall be considered legal. Should this law be passed, it is the plan to publish on the back of the license the two-point feature only and get everybody looking for a rack of antlers. While some two-point and even three-point deer will escape, this will not be a disadvantage, as the ratio between the breeding animals is now unbalanced in many closely hunted sections of the state.

Despite the fact that a winter such as we have been passing through was heretofore considered a healthy one, there has been more sickness throughout this community than for many years, in fact the death record for the past two months in this district has only been equaled before by the flu years of 1918-1919. In a talk with W. A. Hagerty, Registrar of Vital Statistics for the district composed of Clearfield borough, Lawrence, Bradford, Goshen, Girard townships and Wallacetown borough, he informed us that already in 1923 he had issued 80 burial permits, the great majority of which were for Clearfield and Lawrence townships, these figures almost equalling those of the peak of the flu epidemic.

During 1922 there were 273 deaths and 566 births in this district. The births for January of this year total 60.

WHAT DOES WOMAN'S INTUITION WHISPER?

It must be woman's intuition that whispers the coquettish tilt of her hat; stands at her elbow when she selects the shade of fabric that best complements her coloring.

But no "sixth sense" need prompt her in idealizing those lovely lines of hers. Good judgment will tell her to be fitted with a Modart Corset.

There are nearly a million women who wear just one kind of corset—the Modart—and not one will give you the usual woman's answer, "because," if questioned about the matter of corsetry.

They have very definite reasons for wearing the Modart, for it does just what a corset should do and does nothing it shouldn't. That's the skill of Modart design. The Modart wearer has none of that constricted look or feeling.

Every type of figure will find a Modart—just the proper Modart—to bring out the ideal lines. And it fits splendidly—just smooth and perfect curves that follow the figure and the fashion as well.

Women might choose the Modart because it is so dainty and feminine and perfectly tailored. But they go on wearing the Modart because it gives so much better lines and so much more comfort than they ever believed a corset could. That is because there is no other corset like the Modart.

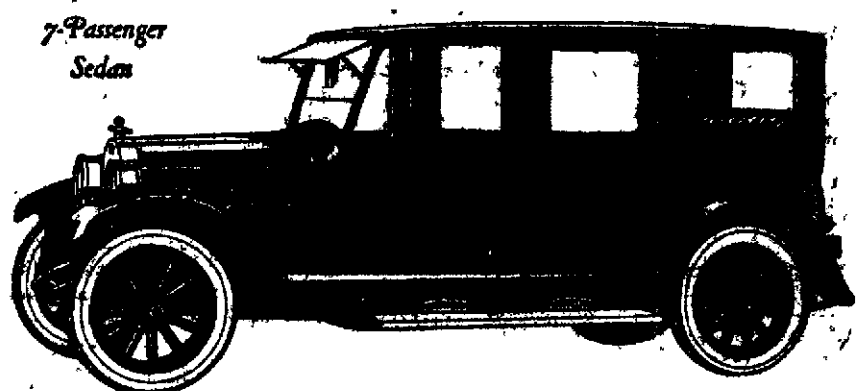

Your travels may take you from New York to Palm Beach, from San Francisco to the Golden Gate. Wherever you go among the gay throngs on the promenade, women more delicate in lineaments, or colorful figures about the golfing green, you are sure to find Modart Corsets worn. Furnishing the background of quiet good taste in the character of delicate frocks or gorgeous gowns, there always is Modart—the shape of fashionable women

HAYMAKERS ENJOY A SLICE OF PORK AFTER DAYS' WORK

We never heard of an honest to goodness injun making hay but we have heard a lot of how the modern Red Men make hay. It appears that they all sit around on the rail fences and stump and by some means (that's the secret) they compel the poor paleface who they capture on their hunting grounds to turn the hay and so the high pitching, especially on hot days. One good thing about it they always eat afterwards and the initiate usually are ready for a good sized meal when they are through with their labors on the hayfield under the burning sun.

Last night was no exception and after the regular session of the I. O. R. M. those who had the necessary pass word and sign were admitted to the hay lot where hay was made, but not until some scouts had been sent out for laborers. They found two tramps in the barnyard who wished to learn the mysteries of making hay and their wishes were promptly met but not quite so promptly as they would have wished. Just as there is no royal road to learning so there is no easy road to the knowledge of how to make hay. After the now was full of choice timothy and clover all repaired to the establishment of K. of B. Shugarts where coffee, ice cream and cake was served.

Deputy Constable and Special Policeman Ralph Hileman has a job on his hands if he is to fulfill the real purpose of his appointment in the eyes of the law and according to the hopes of the law abiding citizens of Bigler Township. If Mr. Hileman, whoever he is, is simply to be the regular summons server and warrant carrier during the time that Constable Manion is under indictment, he might just as well have remained the private citizen. If, on the other hand, he is of the stripe of citizen who intends to stop the things that have so long been permitted, he can perform a real service.

We shall see.

President Harding's idea of becoming a member of the world court set up by the League of Nations without becoming a party to the League itself is a commendable one. Thus we will be a force in the administration of world justice but will have no part in the territorial squabbles which beset the league.

What's the matter with DuBois? Behold, the lion and the lamb are going to lie together instead of separately as heretofore in that city of discord and turbulence.

The abrupt ending of the case in which policeman Jeffrey, former County Detective, was charged with robbery by a certain Mr. Carson, after being delayed and continued from court to court, and after citizen had become embittered against citizen, comes as a distinct surprise to all who have followed the case.

Have the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs brought about this high regard for civic decency and public welfare? Or has Billy Sunday been in their midst?

After the hat is passed in the general collection to defray costs in the case, would it not be fitting to stage a barbecue, at which a pageant depicting "Peace" could be given, with Messrs. Jeffrey and Carson representing the lion and the lamb and the interceding witnesses in the case be equipped with wings and transparent wires to flit above the stage as doves? Meanwhile, what is the matter with DuBois?

LABOR DOES NOT

HOLD GOMPERTS

James W. Kline, Chicago Labor leader, asserts that Samuel Gompers represents the workingman's view on the prohibition question. "Mr. Gompers has no right to say labor is wet for there are many union men who go to the polls whenever they can to register dry," asserted Mr. Kline. "He is making a serious mistake trying to get labor set against a movement for good and he will not be upheld in it. Labor knows that there is no reason to help any movement for good. When prohibition was being discussed before the Volstead Code was passed, Mr. Gompers tried to get labor to oppose it and failed. American labor is still opposed to liquor and I think even more so than it was then. He has no right to say the American Federation of Labor is for light wines and beers unless he has been so instructed. The laboring people know light wines and beers means the restoration of the saloon with all its evils.

J. C. Fitzsimmons of St. Louis, in an open letter to Mr. Gompers says: "Recently the country went through two gigantic strikes. Had liquor been flowing freely in 1920 no one could compute the amount of damage done in Pittsburgh in 1877, over $6,000,000. How much was paid by Chicago as a result of the 1894 riots? How many riots were there this summer when the Federated Shop Crafts struck? Modern workmen know they must be sober to hold on and they want to be, because they are better off mentally, morally, physically and financially. I would suggest, Mr. Gompers, that you forget the disagreeable past and look only to the bright, golden future of sobriety and progress."

COMBATANTS AGREE TO FORGIVE

supporter was called to the witness stand. In answer to the questions of Attorney Gleason Mr. Martin said that while he had been called as a character witness for the defense he thought that in the best interests of public policy in the third rate city the case should be abandoned right then and there. He was familiar with the speech of the people in the big town and they wanted this case headed off right now, by Heck!

Ex-City Commissioner Herb Albert was also of the opinion that the people of DuBois, like the kids and Castoria, were all crying to have the case abandoned.

W. C. Pentz, Esq., who has lived in DuBois for 40 years and wasn't ashamed to admit it, said in effect, keep the lid on boys, don't let her escape; the people want this case abandoned, yes, a free.

M. S. Hartsfeld, Joseph Sprankie and Jake Osborn (even Jake) who pleaded guilty to being residents from 19 to 35 years of this community as badly injured of being saved from the ramifications and exposures incident to the further lifting of the lid, also wanted 'er kept on and joined their tearful voices in the universal plea for safety and salvation by a prompt abandonment of the case.

Cal Hoover, who lost every hair of his head but thirty-seven during his 35 years residence in DuBois, wanted 'er abandoned by any and all means, while Fred Loeb, whose wife's frightened clamor for not another sentence not another word.

At this point Adam Hagg, der bur gomeister, was called to the stand and said "this is 'der tag' when we DuBois fellers must all stick together or we won't be inspected" by the balance of Clearfield county or anybody else if they happen to find out what and how much we know about each other. Abandon her chentlemen, abandon her vant it so.

Harry E. Ginter, city sealer of weights and measures, followed the Commander-in-Chief and Admiral of the Army and Navy store on the stand. He said he had weighed the matter carefully and as a sealer guardian of the fair name and fame of the windy city by the Sandy, he thought the case should be abandoned before Dan Cranney, the health officer had a chance to testify.

Hugh Jeffrey, the defendant, was then called and given an opportunity to defend his good name by denying the charges made against him by Prosecutor Carson. He made a good witness for himself. He said he had been a police officer in DuBois for nineteen years and also served three years as county detective. In detailing the happening that resulted in the suit about to be abandoned without issue or heirs, he said he saw Carson on the night of Oct. 14, 1921, in front of Schumm's drug store near the Post Worth; that Carson called him across the street from where he was talking with two other men; that Carson held him by the shoulder when he attempted to leave, grabbing him again as he broke loose. He finally told him to let loose when he seized him again and in shaking him loose Carson fell to the sidewalk; he picked him up and on account of his abusive language and intoxicated condition he decided to place Carson in the lock-up. He denied having taken any diamond stud from Carson's shirt or money from his pocket and said he opened the door of the lock-up and Carson walked in. Some time later he took Carson before the mayor who admitted him to bail. No charge was made against him by Carson when before the mayor and the first he heard of his being charged with robbing Carson was when the warrant was served upon him three days later or on the Monday following. Said he did not use his mace or club on Carson as he had it in his pocket all the time.

Prosecutor Carson was then placed on the stand and in reply to Mr. Miller's questioning said it was the first time he had heard Jeffrey's story of the affair under oath. He said many persons from DuBois had asked him to abandon the prosecution in the interest of public policy; that Jeffrey made him no offer to do so, nor was he receiving anything for abandoning said prosecution. He said he was to pay his own witness costs, and the defendant had agreed to pay the costs of his own witnesses, while DuBois citizens (interested in keeping 'er down) would pay the record costs in the case.

Attorney Miller, private counsel for the prosecutor, then arose and offered a statement for the record in the case in which he said in effect:—

"It is agreed upon the part of the prosecutor that further conduct or adjudication of this case be abandoned. It being understood that Mr. Carson agrees that no further prosecution or action will be brought against the city of DuBois or Mr. Jeffrey arising out of this case. Hugh J. Jeffrey also releases and discharges Mr. Carson from any charge or action growing out of this case of Oct. 14, 1921. As private counsel for Carson I ask that the Court direct a verdict of not guilty. I have talked to many DuBois people who are unanimous in the belief that it would be to the benefit of the people of DuBois and in the interest of good public policy if this prosecution could be ended. Both sides met this request in the same spirit. The movement for abandonment came from the people and no consideration was given either side, they being simply influenced to take the step in the interest of the people and good public policy.

In making this recommendation I will say that the testimony already offered would justify the District Attorney and Court to ask for a verdict of not guilty."

District Attorney Arnold then made a brief statement to the effect that he also had talked with many DuBois citizens about this case and had regarded their request. If he was called upon for a private opinion he would give it but officially he would ask for a verdict of not guilty and leave the record in that shape.

Attorney Magiotti exuded a little saliva at this stage of the proceeding after which Judge Bell stated that this was a most peculiar position when the people of the community came to the front in a public matter as a sort of court of last resort. Said he never saw just such expression before, (neither did anybody else, we'll bet) and believe it would be better if people generally would take such action. This prosecution was brought by private counsel and for reasons did not concern the community. The jury has heard the testimony of both principals, both well known, extensively so in DuBois and each had strong body of friends. He had been approached this morning by DuBois people and asked to defer opening of court while this settlement was worked out, being informed no possible verdict would satisfy but one side. The testimony of both principals was equally positive and defendant was presumed to be innocent until proven guilty. Then prosecutor going upon the stand requests abandonment, likewise his private counsel and the District Attorney and he would therefore direct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty. The jury very promptly acceded to the Court's request and the opera bouffe warfare ended in smoke.

Meanwhile may we not ask "what is the matter at DuBois?" And what are her good, bad and indifferent citizens afraid of anyhow?

A lot of the men in blouses, more scientifically known as the proletariat, summoned to the proceedings to add weight of numbers to the different sides, silently stole away for the 11:30 B. R. & P. train is the final chapter was being written and are thus no subject to having questioned their reasons, if such they had, for wanting the lid kept on and further prying into DuBois affairs held up.

The taking of testimony in the Jeffrey-Carson case, which has attracted almost one hundred of the yeomen and citizenry of DuBois to the county seat, to note the prosperous appearance of our town of superb High School athletes, was begun at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, following the selection of a jury and the brief "opening" of the case by District Attorney Arnold, who told the jury they expected to prove to them beyond the question of "a reasonable doubt" that

LYTLE BROS.

Special Officer and ex-County Detective

Jeffrey did the undue force and violence upon John J. Carson, when he arrested him on the night of Oct. 14, 1921, and that the officer did take a diamond stud from the prisoner's shirt front and $385 in money from his vest pocket while he was in the lock-up.

The first witness called was Carson himself who told of coming out of Kagi's restaurant and meeting Jeffrey on Long avenue opposite the Central hotel. He said he charged Jeffrey with having told something about him and when the officer called him a vile name he replied "Right back at you," whereupon Jeffrey struck him with his fist, knocking him down; then placing handcuffs upon him beat him with his mace and dragged him off to the lockup where he threw him down and while kneeling on his arms he saw Jeffrey take the stud from his shirt and the $385 from his pocket.

Upon a grilling cross-examination by Attorney Gleason, Carson said he was not drunk and had not taken a drink that night. The questions of the defense attempting to weaken Carson's story and show its falsity were fairly well fenced off by the witness, who was a bit hazy and hid behind "I can't recall" upon many questions affecting the plausibility of his tale and the events preceding and after the alleged assault and robbery.

Mrs. Carson was called and testified that Mr. Carson had his diamond stud in his shirt on the night of October 14th, as she had placed it there herself about 8 p. m. She also saw the $400 roll Carson alleged was paid him between 4 and 5 o'clock of the afternoon of October 14th by John Brown, who was paying for a team.

L. G. Ross, a B. R. & P. engineer, who was with Carson at the time the altercation between Jeffrey and Carson started, corroborated Carson as to the meeting between the two men. He saw no blow struck but did see Carson lying on the sidewalk and Jeffrey putting the handcuffs on him. He saw no mace in Jeffrey's hand, but did know that Carson had his diamond stud in his shirt, "because he generally wore it."

John Brown was called and testified that he paid Carson the $400, of which the alleged missing $385 is a part, on the afternoon of Oct. 14. Brown said he had been paid the money two months before by ex-Senator Tim Kurtz, of Punxsy, for work done in the lumber woods. Brown on cross-examination denied that he had to borrow street car fare from his mother-in-law, Mrs. Dick Berry, in order to get home from DuBois on Oct. 14th. He admitted, however, that he had been arrested and locked up by Jeffrey in January of 1922.

That closed the testimony for the prosecution and court adjourned for the day.

A Successful Man

Among the notable and successful men of this country who achieved great success along strictly legitimate lines was Dr. R. V. Pierce. Devoting his attention to the specialty of women's diseases, he became a recognized authority in that line.

Over fifty years ago this noted physician gave to the world a prescription which has never been equaled for the weakness of women. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all thru treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backache, headache, weakening pains, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life. Women who take this standard remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic, so good that druggists everywhere sell it in both tablet and fluid form.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for equal pay. Write for free medical advice.

Curwensville's Own Column

Messrs. Clarence Bunnell and William Proud walked up to the captain's desk Monday evening and deposited the sum of $5.00 each for giving a demonstration of a fist bout on Filbert street last Saturday. Bunnell was awarded the decision after the second round.

August Martira sold a plot or certain piece of ground located on Second street to Zella Mullen, the price paid being the sum of $400.

Squire John Y. Rafferty, of Grampian, visited Curwensville Monday evening in a business way, he having occasion to make affidavit to some important papers before Squire Dale.

George Heitzmuth, a former resident of this town, but for a number of years making his home in DuBois, called on relatives and friends yesterday. He had been up to Grampian for a visit with his brother, Hardman, who has been seriously ill for some weeks.

Miss Margaret Gates, a daughter of the late Blair Gates, was taken to the Clearfield hospital yesterday and operated on for appendicitis. The young lady was stricken very suddenly, compelling immediate attention.

Ira D. Kerns, one of the genuine Curwensville boys, who fought and squibbled with boys from Bendersville (he being a native of Gobbler's Hollow) in his youth, now a resident of Brookport, Pa., was around yesterday shaking hands with the boys, and some ladies also. The "Deacon" had just returned from a two weeks sojourn down Lancaster and Harrisburg way. On his trip he ran into a mess of old Curwensville lads in the persons of Ed, Joe and Harry Etzler.

Miss Stella Buckley, a High School student, is compelled to remain away from her studies on account of illness.

Both the Pennsylvania Hide and Leather company's plant and the shirt and blouse factory shut down at night in order that their employees might attend the funeral of Rush M. Decker yesterday afternoon. Both superintendents are to be commended for this act of respect to the deceased and proves conclusively that Mr. Decker was held in more than ordinary esteem by his fellow workmen who attended the church services in large numbers.

Arrangements for holding the funeral of Rush Montgomery Decker yesterday were changed at the last hour. This was found to be absolutely necessary owing to the fact that Mrs. Decker had been taken with the disease and her condition would not permit the services to be held at the home. The body was conveyed to the Baptist church, where the Pythian order took charge and read a beautiful and impressive ceremony. The large room was filled to capacity with relatives and friends, who with bowed heads and sorrowing hearts took leave of one whom they loved and respected in life.

Since the snow piles on State street have decreased somewhat one can easily see the amount of dirt and filth that has accumulated within the last four months. Where it all hailed from no one seems able to tell accurately, but it is a disgrace to the town nevertheless. It would not be much of a surprise if an epidemic broke out in the community, as there does not seem to be any move made toward removing snow banks or dirt either.

Mrs. Henry Martin is slowly recovering from a six weeks illness.

Shawville.

Dan Livergood is spending a few days in Clearfield visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. Will Rich was shopping in Clearfield Wednesday and Thursday.

Earl Shrey of Clearfield, transacted business here between trains Thursday.

Miss Selva Kephart, daughter of James Kephart of Egypt, has returned home after undergoing a successful operation for appendicitis at the Clearfield hospital.

The annual meeting of Goshen township Road Supervisors will be held at Shawville next Monday, March 5th. Let us refer to the increasing responsibilities thrown upon the men holding this important office who seem to be second to none in this part of the country in view of the ever increasing amount of traffic which is bound to come during the ensuing months of the year. Let us hope that the township officers will appreciate and grant financial aid when and wherever necessary in keeping these worthy gentlemen to safe guard the interests of the traveling public.

Owing to the drifting snow roads are almost impassable, especially for cars. A group of men are reported to be working on the Shawville-Woodland road in an effort to open it for travel.

An engine failure on an N. Y. C. train going east Sunday evening just east of Shawville presented a confusing appearance for a little while owing to the dense volume of traffic sidings being blocked, and crews on West bound trains nearing their 16 hour working limit. A crew was called light out of Clearfield to take the train east and together with the yard pusher they pulled the trains back into Gray siding to allow track to proceed.

The pusher engine afterward taking the disabled engine and crew to Clearfield to make a new start with another engine upon the expiration of 8 hours rest.

They are becoming so plentiful, no doubt being driven in by hunger, that they can be seen most any time within a few hundred feet of the election house. Old hunters are reported to be feeding them salted peanuts and other dainties in an effort to get on better terms with them this coming fall. (We hope Knepp does not see this.)

The Goshen Grange will hold a big supper in their hall at Goshen next Thursday evening, March 1st. All members are requested to be present.

Karhaus.

Mrs. A. B. Maines and daughter Beulah are visiting relatives and friends in Rochester, N. Y.

Lawrence C. Barrett, the Ford salesman from Clearfield, was transacting business here the greater part of the week.

An accident which might have resulted fatally occurred at the public road crossing Thursday of last week. "Chub" Bowes, the pioneer mail carrier from Pine Glen, was coming into town in his fiver, when something happened to the spark gap which withdrew his attention from an approaching freight train and as a result the fiver connected with a car of coal adjoining the engine.

Coudley-Frenchville.

Rymond Billotte, New York Central locomotive fireman of Clearfield, was visiting his mother at Frenchville last Wednesday.

C. J. Mignot of Coudley transacted business in Clearfield last Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Bessie Dougherty of Clearfield spent the past week with her mother, Mrs. Ada Jannot, at Frenchville.

Richard Barthelmess in the "Bond Boy" is even better than "Tolable David" and will be shown at the Driggs Friday and Saturday.

Tuesday reported to the New York Central t. nmaster's office at Clearfield, and successfully passed the signal station operator's examination. He was immediately assigned temporary work on second track at Karhaus station.

Alton Green, the instrumentalist from Coudley, was in Karhaus last Saturday between trains.

John Bergey, a member of the state hospital staff, at Gowanda, N. Y., is visiting his father at his home in Coudley.

On its first visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Leugey of Coudley, the stork left them a big boy baby.

With tons of hay and straw in their barns and still no way to market, the Covington and Girard township farmers will long remember the serious financial handicap which they have suffered, and are still suffering, from the loss of the Deer Creek and Rolling Stone bridges.

These bridges should have been reconstructed months ago, had proper action been taken, immediately after their destruction, but after twenty months of "watchful waiting" and nothing maturing, the citizens of this district finally forward a petition to the Board of Commissioners of Ground and Buildings at Harrisburg, and convinced them of the urgent necessity of these bridges. Action was immediately taken, the contracts awarded, and reconstruction began last September, but owing to the collapse of the substructure at Rolling Stone last December, work was suspended until spring, at which time it will be resumed, and bridges completed at the earliest possible date. This means more "watchful waiting." However it is hoped that the gaps will be closed some time during the early summer.

LeContes Mills Bald Hill.

Q. E. Beauseigneur has started to build an ice cream factory at LeContes Mills. A. B. Bloom has charge of plans and erection and installation of machinery. It is expected the plant will be completed by spring.

It was a sad funeral party that left the home of James Hunter of Wellsboro, Pa., Monday afternoon. It was there that his nephew, Willis Hunter, the lad who met such a tragic death by a kerosene explosion, was buried Wednesday.

Surveyor.

John Shaw, who was severely injured by a fall of rock at Trojan No. 3 mine Thursday, is improving rapidly and hopes are entertained for a complete recovery.

Howard Graham, an employee of Harbison-Walker mines has moved to the home of his father-in-law, Geo. Luzier, at Egypt. There he will reside until his new home close by is completed.

Ralph Shomo, 11-year-old son of Geo. Shomo, while walking on the trestle work of Craft mine tripped and fell a distance of six feet, breaking his right arm at the elbow. Friday afternoon, Dr. Lewis was consulted, but he recommended that the boy be taken to Clearfield hospital.

Miss Josephine Diehl, the Craft school teacher is visiting her parents at Bells Landing over the week-end.

Keating.

Walden Burfield of Faunce visited his brother, F. H. Burfield, at Birch Island near here last week.

It is understood the Keystone Light and Power Co. have renewed their option with Thomas Callahan of Keating for a certain tract of land lying between the Sinnemahoning and the Susquehanna rivers for the erection of a large power plant.

That the shopmen's strike still exists, especially on the Renova division of the Pennsylvania railroad, is foretold by their low operating efficiency at the present time. Their power is so badly in need of repair that only passenger trains and local freight make up the day's run. It is said that the B. & P. Ry., upon reaching an agreement with the union last fall, declared a labor shortage and promptly started to hire all the experienced men Renova shops could produce. This alone has caused the Pennsylvania much inconvenience.

Bandit "Big Frank" Watkins Identified; Aged Father Stunned

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 28.—The body of a man known as "Big Frank" Watkins, alleged fugitive from Pittsburgh, who was killed in a gun battle with police was today identified by John Pelquin, aged seventy-three of Worcester, Mass., as that of his son Peter Pelquin, aged forty-four. The aged man said his son lives at 5422 North Lauder Avenue, Chicago. Pelquin told the authorities that his son left home many years ago and that he was under the impression he was a traveling salesman.

Ape Took Too Much Liberty. It appears that apes understand the action of a lock. One animal in a city "zoo" was taught to unlock his door, and it was amusing to see him choose the right key and let himself out. But the experience taught the keepers never to teach another animal. Twice this creature was found at large in the gardens. He must have opened the doors with tools of his own making.

Two sport models for spring are shown here. The blouse is of wool jersey tubing. The extra fullness is taken in by the diagonal pleat. Dresses and separate skirts as well as blouses have been equipped to take advantage of this seamless material. The dress is made with a wrap around skirt that may be fastened with snaps in town and left to flap around knee-length knickers when its owner is in the country.

THE KISS OF JUDAS

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM
Copyright, 1922, by E. Phillips Oppenheim
Arrest, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SIR NORMAN GREYES, formerly of Scotland Yard, is devoting his time to tracking down an arch criminal of many disguises known to him as MICHAEL SAYERS.

JANET SOAR, maid in Sayers' cottage in England, is in love with her master. She knows that a notice of her arrest will mean the end of her life with him.

Sayers, known as the golf club as Mr. Stanfield, plays a game with Sir Norman during which the suspicions of the latter are aroused as to Mr. Stanfield's real identity.

After a three months' vacation, Greyes meets Stanfield in a hotel lobby. An insurance company asks Sir Norman to question a South American widow living at the hotel, regarding a policy of a hundred thousand pounds carried on her remarkable rope of pearls.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

"Have you had any intimation of thieves working in this neighborhood?" I asked him.

"None whatever," he replied. "I will be perfectly frank with you. It is not an ordinary robbery of which we are afraid. For some reason or other, our inquiry department has formed a dubious opinion of Mrs. De Mendosa herself."

"I remarked, 'You are afraid of a fraud.'"

"Precisely! Directly we received the letter from the hotel detective, we rang up the manager here. All that we could learn was that the illness was altogether unexpected, and that the man had been compelled to go home at a moment's notice."

In reply to our recent advice, the management assured us that they considered nothing of the sort necessary. No robbery of jewels had ever taken place from this hotel, and they considered their night porter fully competent to watch over the interests of their guests."

"Sir William Greaves, our manager, desired me to suggest a fee of two hundred guineas," my visitor concluded.

"I will accept the commission," I promised.

The next morning I interviewed the manager of the hotel, to whom I was well known. He showed some irritation when I spoke of Mrs. De Mendosa's necklace and her nervousness concerning it.

"To be quite frank with you, I am confessed," although Mrs. De Mendosa is a good client and pays no accounts regularly, I am not at all sorry that we have let her into the rooms."

"Why?" I asked.

"People with valuable jewels should accept its possession as a certain resignation," he replied.

"This is the last note, I am told, where a jewel robbery would take place," the lady herself I am told, takes every possible precaution."

"She wears a diamond necklace, and except in the restaurant, lounge, and every night she is posted in the hotel office. If you may rely upon it, I assure you that every facility will be given you in your task. I would say that you pay a visit to the hotel."

The idea had already occurred to me, and later in the day I was at once invited to the hotel office. I found it with a few other guests, simply dressed, and a negligee and wearing a white cap, she turned and smiled at me with a faint suggestion of a smile.

"Noted to the few who saw me," I introduced myself and bowed deprecatingly.

"It is true that I am very foolish," she admitted, "but I have always been a person of great faith. I have owned my necklace for some years, and I have had it with me in quite lawless places. I have never, however, felt the same amount of apprehension as I do at the present moment."

She came over to my side, and without unclasping the necklace, let it rest in my hands. The pearls were all marvelously matched all of considerable size and with that milky softness which she pointed out to me as being a proof of their great perfection. As we stood there, necks nearly close together, a wisp of her hair touched my forehead. Some half touched my forehead. Some half touched my forehead. Some half touched my forehead.

"Do you admire my pearls?" she asked softly.

"They are very wonderful," I admitted.

She moved slowly away. I breathed more easily as the distance increased between us. She looked over her shoulder unexpectedly, and I believe that she realized my sensation. The slight frown passed from her forehead. She was obviously more content.

"Tell me how you propose to guard my treasures, Sir Norman?" she inquired.

"I scribbled a line of acceptance, I felt as I descended into the lounge that evening a premonition that life for the next few hours was going to be very interesting indeed."

At eight o'clock, precisely, Mrs. De Mendosa came into the lounge. She was wearing a white lace evening dress, with an ermine wrap which hung loosely around her, disclosing the pearls underneath. Her entrance made a mild sensation. Mr. Stanfield, who was seated in his accustomed corner, drinking his cocktail, watched our meeting and departure into the restaurant with obvious surprise.

"The little man was there again who stared at me so much—Mr. Stanfield. I think you called him," she remarked as we took our places.

I nodded.

"I don't say I was surprised to see you together," I said. "I asked him who you were, on the night of my arrival here."

"For the same reason that a great many other people ask the same question," I replied.

"She made a little grimace," I said, "but she determined to pay me no attention this evening, and I am wearing my favorite gown."

"I admire your taste," I assured her.

"Anything else?"

"You are the best dressed and the best looking woman in the room," I said. "Too personal," she remarked.

I turned the conversation to the subject of the necklace. The pearls were collected for her, she told me, by her husband, a man in India, some in the Malay States, some in Rio. She spoke of him with frankness—a prosperous fruit broker who had achieved sudden opulence.

"It was quite as much a change for me as for him," she remarked. "I was a typist in Buenos Aires before we were married. I have known what it is to be poor."

She answered all my questions without reserve, displaying later on much interest in the recounting of such of my adventures as were published in the papers. I began to feel that I had been mistaken with regard to her. She was really exactly what she seemed—a very wealthy woman of adventurous type, suddenly released from matrimonial obligations and a little uncertain what to make of her life.

We took our coffee in the lounge at eight. In the background my golfing friend Mr. Stanfield was seated smoking a cigarette in a retired corner and having the air of studying everyone who passed.

Is it rheumatism?

Not every pain is. Weak kidneys let uric acid collect in the thigh, in the spine, in the back, in the nerves, in the joints, in the muscles, in the blood.

Gout, gravel, dropsy are uric troubles.

When you suspect the kidneys use Doan's Kidney Pills.

PRESIDENT SIGNS BRITISH REFUND MEASURE TODAY

Way Clear for Drawing
Up of Contract, After
Which Payments to U.
S. Will Begin.

BIG TRANSACTION

Washington, D. C. Feb. 28.—President Harding today signed the bill providing for the acceptance of the British debt settlement.

The way is now clear for drawing up a formal contract between the two nations embodying the terms for paying the greatest international debt in history. Following these formalities Great Britain is expected to make an immediate cash payment of about four million dollars and then follow during the year with payments totalling about one hundred sixty-one million dollars.

Bonds of huge dimension will be printed as part of the funding program. The terms agreed upon by the British-American Debt Commission and now ratified by Congress call for payment of the four billion, six hundred million dollar debt in sixty-two years, the interest rate during the first ten years is to be three per cent with three and one half per cent thereafter.

Should Great Britain not pay the amount in sixty-two years, her total payment to this Government would be approximately ten billion dollars.

Mrs. Buzzi Grilled Severely By Police In Murder Probing

New York, Feb. 28.—Mrs. Anna Buzzi, aged thirty, pretty Russian divorcee, held in twenty-five thousand bail as a material witness in the case, was questioned today, police stated, about love affairs of Frederick Schneider, slain millionaire contractor.

The woman, of statuesque type and immaculately groomed when she first made her appearance in court, was disheveled and hysterical in the Bronx County Jail. She wept and cried for "Sweetheart Fred to come and tell them all about it."

THEY START 'EM YOUNG EVIDENTLY IN DETROIT, MICH

Detroit, Feb. 28.—Five school boys between twelve and fourteen are held by county officials today on charges of violating the Volstead Act. Three of the youths are accused of attempting to smuggle "white rye" into the county jail to prisoners while the other two are said to have been captured while bringing a load of beer over the ice from Canada to Ecorse.

NEW GAME LICENSE VERY LIKELY WILL COST AT LEAST $1.50

Game Commission Said
to Incline to Raise In Price in Order to Better Stock the State.

ASK RETURN CARDS

Harrisburg, Feb. 28. (United Press)—The House Game Committee renewed its hearing on the proposed Game Code today.

Chief among the features of the Code to stimulate both support and opposition was the proposed increase in hunters' license fees from $1.00 to $1.50. Last week the Committee voted to eliminate the increase and then voted to reconsider the question at this week's meeting.

The Game Commission which had taken a neutral position on the question of the 50 cent increase until recently today stood strongly for the proposal.

"The increase in the resident fee was not definitely decided upon until after the special report of the Citizens' Committee was made public recently," said a statement from the Game Commission which was among the data laid before the Game Committee at this meeting today. "Demands for more game and refugees came pouring in from all sides. This increase would make it possible to almost double the service to Pennsylvania's sportsmen."

Another feature of the Game Code which was to undergo considerable discussion today was the proposal to provide for a compulsory game report. At present hunters are requested to return a report of game killed during the season, using the stub of the license for that purpose. The Game Commission, according to its statement today, has opposed the proposal to make the return of this stub compulsory. It was announced, however, that only 20,000 reports out of the 475,000 licenses issued were returned by hunters this year. Among other sportsmen's organizations the Conservation Council recommended that the return of this report be required by law.

Thompson Political Machine In Chicago Smashed In Primary

Chicago, Feb. 28.—The powerful political machine built up in Chicago under the guidance of Mayor Wm. Hale Thompson was finally shattered at Tuesday's municipal primaries.

OLD AGE PENSION UP BEFORE STATE SENATE THIS WEEK

Bill Fostered by Big Fraternal Organization
Provides For Dollar a
Day to Those Over 70.

WELL SUPPORTED

Harrisburg, Feb. 28. (U. P.) The State Senate was expected to act this week on the Vanc bill granting assistance of not more than $1 a day to the aged.

This measure is the culmination of six years effort to work out in Pennsylvania a policy of "old age pensions" according to James H. Maurer, president of the State Federation of Labor, who was chairman of the commission of 1917 which was created by a resolution introduced by Governor Sproul, then Senator from Delaware county.

The bill was drafted by the Fraternal Order of Eagles and the State Federation of Labor. It follows largely the plan laid down in the report of the Old Age Pension Commission. Several changes to meet existing conditions were made at the request of Chairman Maurer.

In brief the legislation provides for: 1. Creation of a commission of three to administer the act and appoint a superintendent who receives a salary.

2. Appropriation of $2,000,000 to carry out the provisions.

3. Assistance to "deserving citizens" who have reached 70 years of age and upwards and who have been 15 years residents of Pennsylvania to the amount of $1 a day.

4. Anyone having an income of less than $1 a day with property not exceeding $5,000 valuation qualifying. The method of payment to the aged who are entitled to assistance has been worked out so that a fixed sum of $1 a day is guaranteed. It is explained in this way: "Those whose income from all sources amounts to less than $1 a day should receive a sum from the state which would bring their income up to that amount."

"Only those who have no income whatsoever would be allowed the full amount."

"A person who already has an income of $1 a day or more would not be entitled but those with an income of but $5 a week or 50 cents a day or less would be entitled to the additional to make a dollar a day."

ATHLETES OF THE C. H. S. GRIDIRON BANQUETTED AT JORDAN BY FANS WHO APPRECIATE THEIR WONDERFUL WORK

Letter Men, 2nd Squad, School Board, Coaches
and Officials are Included In One of the Greatest School Events Ever Held In This City

THE "RED AND BLACK" SPIRIT RAN HIGH

Clearfield's peerless football machine with its many cogs, gears, cams and parts, drive shaft and all, knows perfectly well today that, although the football season is now better than three months past, the memories of a successful season left an impress on the minds of their loyal followers that time cannot erase.

One of the finest layouts of food and most magnificent arrangements of table and covers ever arranged in Clearfield was set before the members of the team and the hard working officials and supporters last evening at the Jordan, through the generosity and loyalty of a few fans who wanted to show their appreciation of a job well done.

The committee in charge, Walter Flegel, Ralph Jordan, C. T. Kurtz and W. H. Wilson, could not have functioned more perfectly. The room was handsomely decorated in the school colors, the favors were novel and appropriate, the atmosphere was one of the good spirit and loyalty, fair play and jollity, the dinner was "the best ever" with spring chicken, corn on the cob (real, be-kosh) and a lot of other things that fit right into the bread basket of "rain" colts and "New" made no effort to hold them.

Rockwell's orchestra was on hand early to dine and when the big show started they tuned in with the finest music ever broadcasted.

When Toastmaster "Pop" Wilson called the boys to order and gave the signal to tackle low and spare no bones those who were fortunately present as observers and recorders saw a brief period of intensive scrimmage in which the opposition represented by the tables were completely cleaned up.

Of course no such dinner is complete without speeches and certainly last night's affair would not have been complete without the fine things the fans had to say of the boys who are Clearfield's pride at present and its hope in the future.

Mr. Wilson, a loyal football fan and an ardent friend of red blooded sportsmanship made one of the finest addresses those boys will ever listen to and in order that they may read it again, and carry its lesson through life with them, and in order that every young man of C. H. S. might read and profit thereby, we procured the document and with pleasure print it herewith as follows:

"We are gathered here tonight to recognize, and eulogize, and entertain our 1922 Foot Ball Team. I admit it is rather late in the season but better late than never. Our Team worked hard in practice, and played hard in all kinds of weather, without thought of self. They worked as a unit, and no one can say they saw a yellow streak in any of them. They had the real fighting spirit, and I never admired them more, as a team, than when I saw that fighting and indomitable spirit showing the Saturday afternoon they played the Greensburg Team at Greensburg. A forlorn hope, and they knew it, but they never laid down for a minute. They were a badly battered and bruised lot of boys, but not discouraged—not in the least, and their games after that showed that same fighting spirit."

That same spirit applies to the second squad. It was the hard fight they put up in scrimmage that rounded out and perfected the plays of our regulars. They all worked hard, and for what purpose? For the honor of their school and their town.

Too much praise cannot be given the coaches who were out each day with the boys in practice, teaching them all the rules of the game, showing them how it should be played, and I think that they feel their labors were not in vain.

The officials of the game gave fair and unbiased decisions, although they had to step some to keep up with our team. They showed the true sporting spirit, and all congratulate them for their fairness.

Therefore, we, as citizens and boosters of Clearfield and as believers in reciprocity, welcome you at this dinner this evening, and we want you to know we are proud of the record you made—as a Foot-Ball team, and your conduct both on and off the field. You gave your best for the honor of the school you represented, and for the town in which you live. Some of you will graduate this year, and whether you enter a school for higher education, or select a business career, or continue at school here, always keep this point in mind—Be Patriotic. What your country needs at this time, and will continue to need, is men that are physically strong, men who are mentally alert, and men who are morally straight. We feel that these attributes are embodied in all of you, or you would not have succeeded in the majority of the games you played. Therefore, we want you to play the game of "Life" in the same way. Remember to "seek the truth and live it"; follow the immortal words of Washington "Young though you be, you are the elder brothers of the ignorant; let your conduct be an example to them. You can help your country more by your moral attitude, than by your opinion. Your opinion will pass away, for "we know in part and prophesy in part." Creeds have lived and died, dynasties have risen and fallen again, laws have been made and trampled underfoot, but the constant tendency of the universe and all it contains is to conform more and more to TRUTH.

There once lived a painter who in his declining years when his hair was white and his hand feeble, desired before he died to put upon his canvas the picture of the Conception of his brain. It was his ideal; it would be if completed, his masterpiece. Week after week, and month after month, as the days went by, he stood by his easel in patient toil, with here and there a stroke of the brush and the blending of a color. At length, after one last feeble touch, the brush dropped from his hand and he fell to the floor—the painter was dead; but his picture was finished.

Persistence and application conquers all things. Don't be selfish. To preserve self, thought and interest must be projected outside of self. Nor will it answer simply to talk about Good Will. No one is fed if I farm experts simply TALK about growing wheat.

The word "Education" reminds me that "a man can be a fool in seven different languages," and wise in only one, which isn't saying anything against real education, which is, in my opinion, adequate preparation to perform some useful function in life; not a lot of "book learning about dead myths and false history, for most history is false—written to please the ruling class of the time it was written, and not in accord with economic or real historic facts. Spencer says "The most important thing is not the quantity of knowledge that a man has taken in and can pour out again, but the ability he shows to use the knowledge he

LOVE OF FINERY LANDS "CULLUD GEMMUN" IN JAIL

GOT GOOD OUTFIT

Benny Hansard, a gentleman of color or who has been hanging around the East End for some time, has again allowed his fondness for other people's glad rags to get him into trouble, also into jail.

Along in December Hansard or George Thomas, as he now calls himself, inserted his ebony carcass into the Sunday-go-to-meetin' suit of a fellow boarder at the boarding house where he held up, and then beat it for Baltimore to keep a tryst with a dusky sweetheart. Chief of Police McMullen had Hansard picked off the train at Tyrone and he was brought back and placed in jail.

Hansard gained his liberty three or four weeks ago and on Monday afternoon got into the dressing room of the employees of the Clearfield tannery and fitted himself out in the street clothes of two or three of them and again beat it. Supt. Menzel enlisted the services of the police department and Chief McMullen and Officer Woolridge rounded up the clothes grabber in a house down in Wrigley Addition and Hansard or Thomas is once more a guest of Sheriff Lowell in "Bugville."

BELLEFONTE MEN WILL GET HEARING AT WILLIAMSPORT

Alleged Offense Was Committed In Eastern
District and Local Officer Could Not Act.

CAR IS STILL HELD

The hearing scheduled before United States Commissioner J. P. O'Laughlin of Arnot Woodson, colored chauffeur for Gordon Montgomery of Bellefonte on a charge of violation of the Volstead Act, went up in smoke when it was found that the alleged offense was committed in Centre county, a part of the middle district of Pennsylvania, while Clearfield county and Commissioner O'Laughlin are affiliated with and a part of the western district.

As a result of this geographical fact all that Commissioner O'Laughlin could do was to take a renewal of Woodson's $1,000 bail for his appearance before U. S. Commissioner Crocker at Williamsport on Friday morning next at 11 o'clock.

Montgomery, owner of the car in which the chauffeur and his synthetic gin were caught at Bellefonte early Saturday morning, with his attorney John G. Love, Jr., was on hand for the hearing. He offered to give bond for the seized car, a special Studebaker six, but Prohibition Agent N. M. Crease, of the Punxsy division headquarters, refused to accept the bond or release the car pending the arrival of Division Head Hazeltine, who will pass upon that proposition. The arrest of Gordon Montgomery for violation of the Volstead Act will hinge upon the testimony adduced at the hearing before Commissioner Crocker on Friday morning. Both Woodson and Montgomery are under bail on a charge of having violated the Woner Act.

F. S. Woodling of Woodland transferred business in Clearfield Tuesday.

COMBATANTS AGREE TO FORGIVE AND FORGET TROUBLE

Brain and Brawn of Citi-

Court to End Case and

FINIS IS WRITTEN

Sacrificing themselves and their opinions of each other upon the altar of city pride, public policy and civic righteousness, Messrs. Jeffery and Carson, whose little two-year-old difficulty came to an inglorious but satisfactory ending in criminal court at noon today, return to the third class city of DuBois both occupying position of martyr to the public weal and general good.

As we note above, the evidence of the prosecution in the case of Carson vs. Jeffery, which difficulty appears to have all classes of citizens in DuBois by the ears, was closed last evening before court adjourned for the day and the friends of each side repaired to the temple of justice this morning with the ringing of the Court House bell, prepared to sit through the "stone wall" defense Jeffery and his attorneys have long claimed they had to the charges made against the police officer.

The "nothing doing" sign was hung out by Court Crier Curley for the general public to take note of while "behind the scenes" in the law library, the opposing attorneys were cheek by jowl attempting to bring order out of the chaos of the situation existing. Emissaries from the opposing camps were passing almost minutely to and fro while those accustomed to such things in the ordinary case quickly saw that something was "adoin' al-rightly."

The lawyers and the supporters of either side worked like Trojans and supposed to have wrought, while the impatient witnesses and spectators marked time. Finally pills as big as billiard balls, more or less sugar-coated were prepared for the principals, the Court was informed that she was now working and the session was opened at 11:10 a. m.

To the surprise of all but those on the inside, Banker B. M. Martin of the Union Trust Company, and a Jeffery

Runaways Held At Punxsy Didn't Run Away At All

Is this the district attorney's office? The voice was agitated and the party answering the phone had visions of a double murder.

"Yes mam."

"Well, this is Mrs. Blankety Blank. My daughter is preparing to run away from home in company with another girl and I want her stopped." Then she poured a lot of details into the telephone. The police were notified and an officer sent to watch the midnight train for Pittsburgh.

Just before the train started to leave the depot two young ladies stepped forth and were about to mount to the platform when the officer brushed them back with his arm. "Not to-night, ladies." He then escorted them to Gieckler's hotel and kept watch most of the night to see that they did not escape.

This morning he learned that the girls did not attempt to leave home and that the girls detained were young ladies from DuBois, who were exceedingly anxious to get home.

GASPS OF THE DYING CONGRESS

Many Say Farewell To Official Life As Congress
Prepares To Go Home

By LAWRENCE MARTIN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 28. (United Press.)—Farewells to the political life of Washington are now being said by a comparatively large group of the outstanding men in Congressional life during the last decade.

Some were going back home at the order of the voters. Others just decided to quit.

Here is the list of those voluntarily retiring is the veteran "Uncle Joe" Cannon, a member for 46 years. Another notable figure who will pass off the stage here is "Joe" Fordney, Rep. Campbell, Kan., who has worked of Michigan, chairman of the House, up to the chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee, who will rule committee. Sorens of has served 12 continuous terms. House Republican Leader Mondell, having failed to win election to the senate, retires after 13 consecutive terms.

Then there are those Senate veterans—Culberson, Tex., McCumber, N. D., who have served since 1899. Page Vt., who has been here since 1908; John Sharp Williams, Hitchcock, Townsend and Poindexter, who have served since 1911, and several others who are leaving after one term.

The House also will lose its Veterans' dry legislator, Rep. Volstead and for some men the curtain which marks the finish of the great drama in which they have been actors.

question put to men like Hitchcock, Pomeroy, John Sharpe Williams—who retires voluntarily—McCumber, Poindexter and New.

"Yes and no," said Senator Hitchcock, who leaves behind him the memory of a charming personality, a great friendliness and marked ability. "Of course, it is a wrench to give up the life to which one has grown accustomed. But it is something to have lived that life, and even when a man is beginning to get old, there is spice in variety. It will be good to watch, just as it was good to be in there trying to help."

"Sorry?" said John Sharpe Williams. Not a bit of it. Only sorry I didn't do it before. Of course, there are friends I will miss, but they will be friends still."

Glad or Sorry?
Senator Pomeroy smiled. Pomeroy came to the Senate with a reputation for being scarcely human, in the sense that he was considered cold and withdrawn from common mortals. No one around the Senate found him that, but instead a friendly, genial man with a ready smile.

"You remember," he said, "that you wrote a story one time about my political motto being 'You never can tell'?" Well, that's true; you never can tell exactly whether you are going to be glad or sorry. I will be decidedly glad to get back to my law books. I've had my little share of the senate's work, and for that I am glad."

It was so with all of them. If they felt disappointment over being defeated in the election, they did not show it. "It is the fortune of war to men in politics everywhere," was their attitude.

Not one of these senators would say a word about expectations of returning some time to the senate. Younger men are forging ahead, and it is not often that senators return.

In the House, where the term is but two years as against the senate's six, the case is different. There the partings are less seriously taken, or after all, in two years the men who go out tomorrow may be back.

FUNERAL OF MISS HEWITT

Funeral services over the body of Miss Georgianna Hewitt of Punxsutawney, Pa., who died at New Haven, Conn., from poisoning, were held here Monday afternoon at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. C. B. DeBeque, of Ogden avenue. Burial was made at Hillcrest. A very large delegation of friends attended from Punxsutawney. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. C. Stuart Kitchen, rector of Christ-Episcopal church of Punxsutawney assisted by the Rev. Horace Lincoln Jacobs of this city. Beautiful selections were rendered by Mrs. J. M. Gallaher and Mrs. Keith Davis. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful.

The New Haven Journal-Courier carried a front page, full column article on the death of Miss Hewitt which gave testimony to the high esteem in which the young lady was held by that city where she had been appearing before the public for many months. It says that fully 2,000 men, women and children called at the chapel to pay their last respects to the popular actress.

We want you to take a personal interest in the community in which you live. You are building now. You are building your bodies and minds and ideals and moral character. If you succeed, later on you will build better homes, better schools, better cities and better States. You must build in strength of limb as well as in mortar and stone; in strength of mind as well as in masonry; in beauty of thought as well as in beauty of architecture.

And withal you must go to your work humbly and thoughtfully, for at best we are not skilled artisans, nor master builders, but merely earnest, willing workmen who would do our part well and who wish to be proud of the part we play."

THE LIFE OF A CONGRESS

Washington, Feb. 28. (United Press.)—When does congress expire by constitutional limitation, March 3 or March 4?

This question has arisen with respect to the present congress, because leaders planned to hold a session tomorrow Sunday, March 4, to complete the work of the congress. Under this plan, the adjournment would come at noon, March 4, instead of midnight, March 3, he time generally accepted as the constitutional limit.

But the advocates of the March 4 proposition have dug up a precedent. In 1851, at midnight on March 3, Senator Jefferson Davis of Mississippi, Lewis Cass, of Michigan and James M. Mason, of Virginia, raised the point that the congress had expired, and that their terms of office had ended. They declined to vote on matters coming up after that hour.

A long discussion followed, ended with adoption of a resolution presented by Senator Yulee, Florida, which read:

Resolved, That in the opinion of the senate, the present congress does not expire by constitutional limitation until meridian (noon) of the fourth of March.

Moriarty's agents, the Lartabees, kidnap Alice. Holmes effects an entrance to the Lartabee house and by a clever ruse discovers where the letters are hidden. His interest in Alice prevents him from taking them until they are given freely.

Moriarty is frustrated everywhere by the great Sherlock Holmes. Thru elaborate measures he corners the detective alone but Holmes is too fast and the tables are turned.

Later Holmes is decoyed to a gas house where he faces almost certain death with Alice. By quick strategy he escapes with the girl and the letters. He sets a snare for Moriarty against whom convicting evidence is obtained for the first time.

The detective's interest in Alice has become more than merely professional and now he finds that though he has won his case he has lost his heart. The cast is without a doubt the best all around combination of stars ever grouped in this kind of film.

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmothers' mustard plaster, without the blister.

Musterole is a clean white ointment made of oil of mustard and castor oil. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, contusions, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite, colds of all sorts. Salicin fails to deliver results. 25c and 50c jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.00. Better than a mustard plaster.

TURN HAIR DARK
WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft texture and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

WILL USE CLEARFIELD BRICK

The University of Michigan has been getting some pretty good material from Clearfield the past few years and when they decided to erect a new Field House an inquiry was made by the trustees in charge as to the quality of Clearfield's famous clay products. By direction of F. Cortes Bell, Esq., a "Michiganander" himself, the purchasing agent dropped in at the Paterson Clay Products plant and when he left had arranged with Manager Paterson to secure 250,000 Paterson brick for the new building.

DAINTY WORK For IDLE HANDS

By HEDDA HOYT

Fashion Editor for the United Press
(Written for the United Press)

New York, Feb. 28. (United Press)—The days when women were content to while their time away upon hand embroidered towels and bed linens have departed, but the urge of our ancestors, who knitted the family socks, made the family home-spuns and wove their own carpets, is inborn in many of us and we can not sit idle with empty hands.

Hand work is one of the most expensive luxuries one can buy today and there are numerous ways one can apply it to the summer frock without much labor.

For instance, the summer dresses of French voile can be made into such charming affairs with a little hand work. I saw one among the imports to a fashionable shop which would be well worth copying. The material was a beautiful shade of grayish blue voile, handstitched in rose color, and worn over a slip of rose voile. Placing one shade of voile over another is very new this year and extremely effective.

The skirt had a wide border effect of hemstitching, extending up as far as the knees. Threads were pulled out at intervals making spaces about an inch wide through which the rose underslip showed. It is very easy to pull threads in voile and the hemstitching was done in heavy rose silk cord.

Hemstitched Sleeves

The long waisted blouse was unhemstitched though the tiny puffed sleeves were entirely hemstitched. A satin sash of rose shade finished the low waistline and tied in a soft bow on the left hip.

Even the simple chain stitch does much to embellish the organdy or voile frock. I saw one such frock the other day made of yellow voile with interlapping circles worked in chain stitch, in a darker shade of yellow. Every five inches in the skirt were horizontal rows of these circles which graduated in size, being larger at the bottom of the skirt than at the top.

One can cut out paste board circles and with a soft lead pencil outline them on the skirt, laying one over the other a tiny bit. By taking large stitches the work is effective and very quickly done.

The bodice of this frock continued the design of the skirt as far as the bust line leaving the top plain. The long full sleeves were chain-stitched from elbow to wrist where they were caught into narrow wrist bands. There was a sash of deep yellow matching the underslip.

Round handkerchiefs of colored linen with borders of white net edging are simply made and are pretty adjuncts to the spring frock.

Sweaters and Blouses

Slip-on sweaters embroidered in brush-wool, in contrasting colors about the bottom of the sweater, neck and cuffs are new and easily made. Those who like the plainer effects in sweaters will be interested in the collar and cuff sets of linen which are worn with the slip-ons. They are made of ecru linen and cross-stitched in peasant designs in several different shades which blend with the shade of the sweater.

The present fad for the monogrammed blouse is being taken up by New York college girls who are embroidering their initials on their spring blouses. Often the design completely covers the tiny pocket of the white crepe de chene blouse and upon close inspection one discovers that there are two sets of initials there—a girl's and a boy's.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, says a woman called at a lawyer's office in his town the other day and asked to have suit begun against a former lover for breach of promise.

"That man promised to marry me four times," she said, "but he hasn't kept his word, and my affections are all blighted."

"How much damage do you wish to claim?" asked the polite lawyer.

"Well, I was blighted four times, and I think one hundred dollars a blight is none too much."

So suit was entered for four hundred dollars for four blights.

The Pennsylvania game commission presents the following argument on the desirability of a "two-point buck" game law:

"In 1907 when does and fawns were first protected, there were only 200 legal deer killed in Pennsylvania. The refuge system was extended and stocked until now there are 31 refuges in operation, and the buck law and refuges together increased the deer until during the 1922 season 6115 legal male deer were killed. In some sections of the state the territory is so closely hunted that practically the only deer being killed are spikes and two-points. The carcasses of these deer are small, and but few of the heads are being mounted. In all of these, thickly hunted sections sportsmen are becoming discouraged, and are gradually crowding into sections not now so closely hunted. The result will be that in a short time deer territory not now closely hunted will be denuded of practically all the big bucks also, and hunting camps now enjoying almost absolute privacy will be surrounded by many other camps covering the same ground."

"In 1921 the game commission began a census of the antler growth for the purpose of securing information on the approximate age of the deer being killed. In the case of deer with more than spikes, the largest antler only was counted for classification purposes. This was condemned in 1922 also. The results of this tabulation are as follows:

	1921 Per.	1922 Per.
Legal Deer	638.13	1096.18
Spike bucks	792.16	1261.20
2 Points Antler	1244.26	1567.25
4 Points Antler	2156.45	2191.36
and larger
Total	4830	6115

"From the above it is clearly noticeable that the spikes and two point deer have increased very rapidly, while the percentage of deer with large racks of antlers is decreasing. The kill of does in 1921 was 213 and in 1922 was 207, while the kill of male deer with antlers less than 4 inches in length was 68 in 1921 and 62 in 1922. While the number of does and male fawns has not been reduced materially, in view of the larger number of hunters and greater number of deer killed, the results in that direction are not discouraging but there are still entirely too many illegal deer being killed."

"The sportsmen thruout the state generally are strongly in favor of the proposed change in the deer law under which it would be illegal to kill a deer of any kind until it has at least two points to one antler, regardless whether there is any antler on the other side or not. Under this provision spike bucks would be protected altho there is a safety feature as a protection to honest sportsmen which provides that a deer with an antler eight or more inches long without prongs shall be considered legal. Should this law be passed, it is the plan to publish on the back of the license the two-point feature only and get everybody looking for a rack of antlers. While some two-point and even three-point deer will escape, this will not be a disadvantage, as the ratio between the breeding animals is now unbalanced in many closely hunted sections of the state."

Despite the fact that a winter such as we have been passing through was heretofore considered a healthy one, there has been more sickness throughout this community than for many years, in fact the death record for the past two months in this district has only been equaled before by the flu years of 1918-1919. In a talk with W. A. Hagerty, Registrar of Vital Statistics for the district composed of Clearfield borough, Lawrence, Bradford, Goshen, Girard townships and Wallacetown borough, he informed us that already in 1923 he had issued 80 burial permits, the great majority of which were for Clearfield and Lawrence townships, these figures almost equalling those of the peak of the flu epidemic.

During 1922 there were 273 deaths and 566 births in this district. The births for January of this year total 60.

They mean freedom forever from pimples, from the blackhead pest, from boils, from eczema and skin eruptions, from rheumatism impurities, from that tired, exhausted, run-down feeling. Red-blood-cells are the most important thing in the world to each of us. S. S. S. will build them for you. S. S. S. has been known since 1894, as one of the greatest blood-builders, blood-purifiers and system strengtheners ever produced. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. WHAT DOES WOMAN'S INTUITION WHISPER?

It must be woman's intuition that whispers the coquettish tilt of her hat; stands at her elbow when she selects the shade of fabric that best complements her coloring.

But no "sixth sense" need prompt her in idealizing those lovely lines of hers. Good judgment will tell her to be fitted with a Modart Corset.

There are nearly a million women who wear just one kind of corset—the Modart—and not one will give you the usual woman's answer, "because," if questioned about the matter of corsetry.

They have very definite reasons for wearing the Modart, for it does just what a corset should do and does nothing it shouldn't. That's the skill of Modart design. The Modart wearer has none of that constricted look or feeling.

Every type of figure will find a Modart—just the proper Modart—to bring out the ideal lines. And it fits splendidly—just smooth and perfect curves that follow the figure and the fashion as well.

Women might choose the Modart because it is so dainty and feminine and perfectly tailored. But they go on wearing the Modart because it gives so much better lines and so much more comfort than they ever believed a corset could. That is because there is no other corset like the Modart.

Your travels may take you from New York to Palm Beach, from San Francisco to the Golden Gate. Wherever you go among the gay throngs on the promenade, women more sedate in dress, more colorful figures about the golfing green, you are sure to find Modart Corsets worn. Furnishing the background of quiet good taste in the character of delicate frocks or gorgeous gowns, there always is Modart—the shape of fashionable women.

HAYMAKERS ENJOY A SLICE OF PORK AFTER DAYS' WORK

We never heard of an honest to goodness rufus making hay but we have heard a lot of how the modern Red Men make hay. It appears that they all sit around on the rail fences and stump and by some means (that's the secret) they compel the poor paleface who they capture on their hunting grounds to turn the hay and so the high pitching, especially on hot days. One good thing about it they always eat afterwards and the initiate usually are ready for a good sized meal when they are through with their labors on the hayfield under the burning sun.

Last night was no exception and after the regular session of the I. O. R. M. those who had the necessary pass word and sign were admitted to the hay lot where hay was made, but not until some scouts had been sent out for laborers. They found two tramps in the barnyard who wished to learn the mysteries of making hay and their wishes were promptly met but not quite so promptly as they would have wished. Just as there is no royal road to learning so there is no easy road to the knowledge of how to make hay. After the now was full of choice timothy and clover all repaired to the establishment of K. of B. Shugarts where coffee, ice cream and cake was served.

Deputy Constable and Special Policeman Ralph Hileman has a job on his hands if he is to fulfill the real purpose of his appointment in the eyes of the law and according to the hopes of the law abiding citizens of Bigler Township. If Mr. Hileman, whoever he is, is simply to be the regular summons server and warrant carrier during the time that Constable Manion is under indictment, he might just as well have remained the private citizen. If, on the other hand, he is of the stripe of citizen who intends to stop the things that have so long been permitted, he can perform a real service.

We shall see.

President Harding's idea of becoming a member of the world court set up by the League of Nations without becoming a party to the League itself is a commendable one. Thus we will be a force in the administration of world justice but will have no part in the territorial squabbles which beset the league.

What's the matter with DuBois? Behold, the lion and the lamb are going to lie together instead of separately as heretofore in that city of discord and turbulence.

The abrupt ending of the case in which policeman Jeffrey, former County Detective, was charged with robbery by a certain Mr. Carson, after being delayed and continued from court to court, and after citizen had become embittered against citizen, comes as a distinct surprise to all who have followed the case.

Have the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs brought about this high regard for civic decency and public welfare? Or has Billy Sunday been in their midst?

After the hat is passed in the general collection to defray costs in the case, would it not be fitting to stage a barbecue, at which a pageant depicting "Peace" could be given, with Messrs. Jeffrey and Carson representing the lion and the lamb and the interceding witnesses in the case be equipped with wings and transparent wires to flit above the stage as doves? Meanwhile, what is the matter with DuBois?

HOLD GOMPERTS

James W. Kline, Chicago Labor leader, asserts that Samuel Gompers represents the workingman's view on the prohibition question. "Mr. Gompers has no right to say labor is wet for there are many union men who go to the polls whenever they can to register dry," asserted Mr. Kline. "He is making a serious mistake trying to get labor set against a movement for good and he will not be upheld in it. Labor knows that there is no trust to help any movement for good. When prohibition was being discussed before the Volstead Code was passed, Mr. Gompers tried to get labor to oppose it and failed. American labor is still opposed to liquor and I think even more so than it was then. He has no right to say the American Federation of Labor is for light wines and beers unless he has been so instructed. The laboring people know light wines and beers means the restoration of the saloon with all its evils."

J. C. Fitzsimmons of St. Louis, in an open letter to Mr. Gompers says: "Recently the country went through two gigantic strikes. Had liquor been flowing freely in 1920 no one could compute the amount of damage done in Pittsburgh in 1877, over $6,000,000. How much was paid by Chicago as a result of the 1894 riots? How many riots were there this summer when the Federated Shop Crafts struck? Modern workmen know they must be sober to hold on and they want to be, because they are better off mentally, morally, physically and financially. I would suggest, Mr. Gompers, that you forget the disagreeable past and look only to the bright, golden future of sobriety and progress."

supporter was called to the witness stand. In answer to the questions of Attorney Gleason Mr. Martin said that while he had been called as a character witness for the defense he thought that in the best interests of public policy in the third rate city the case should be abandoned right then and there. He was familiar with the speech of the people in the big town and they wanted this case headed off right now, by Heck!

Ex-City Commissioner Herb Albert was also of the opinion that the people of DuBois, like the kids and Castoria, were all crying to have the case abandoned.

W. C. Pentz, Esq., who has lived in DuBois for 40 years and wasn't ashamed to admit it, said in effect, keep the lid on boys, don't let her escape; the people want this case abandoned, yes, a free.

M. S. Hartsfeld, Joseph Sprankie and Jake Osborn (even Jake) who pleaded guilty to being residents from 19 to 35 years of this community as badly injured by being saved from the ramifications and exposures incident to the further lifting of the lid, also wanted 'er kept on and joined their tearful voices in the universal plea for safety and salvation by a prompt abandonment of the case.

Cal Hoover, who lost every hair of his head but thirty-seven during his 35 years residence in DuBois, wanted 'er abandoned by any and all means, while Fred Loeb, whose wife's frightened clamor for not another sentence not another word.

At this point Adam Haag, der bur gomeister, was called to the stand and said "this is 'der tag' when we DuBois fellers must all stick together or we won't be inspected" by the balance of Clearfield county or anybody else if they happen to find out what and how much we know about each other. Abandon her chentlemen, abandon her vant it so.

Harry E. Ginter, city sealer of weights and measures, followed the Commander-in-Chief and Admiral of the Army and Navy store on the stand. He said he had weighed the matter carefully and as a sealer guardian of the fair name and fame of the windy city by the Sandy, he thought the case should be abandoned before Dan Cranney, the health officer had a chance to testify.

Hugh Jeffrey, the defendant, was then called and given an opportunity to defend his good name by denying the charges made against him by Prosecutor Carson. He made a good witness for himself. He said he had been a police officer in DuBois for nineteen years and also served three years as county detective. In detailing the happening that resulted in the suit about to be abandoned without issue or heirs, he said he saw Carson on the night of Oct. 14, 1921, in front of Schumm's drug store near the Fort Worth; that Carson called him across the street from where he was talking with two other men; that Carson held him by the shoulder when he attempted to leave, grabbing him again as he broke loose. He finally told him to let loose when he seized him again and in shaking him loose Carson fell to the sidewalk; he picked him up and on account of his abusive language and intoxicated condition he decided to place Carson in the lock-up. He denied having taken any diamond stud from Carson's shirt or money from his pocket and said he opened the door of the lock-up and Carson walked in. Some time later he took Carson before the mayor who admitted him to bail. No charge was made against him by Carson when before the mayor and the first he heard of his being charged with robbing Carson was when the warrant was served upon him three days later or on the Monday following. Said he did not use his mace or club on Carson as he had it in his pocket all the time.

Prosecutor Carson was then placed on the stand and in reply to Mr. Miller's questioning said it was the first time he had heard Jeffrey's story of the affair under oath. He said many persons from DuBois had asked him to abandon the prosecution in the interest of public policy; that Jeffrey made him no offer to do so, nor was he receiving anything for abandoning said prosecution. He said he was to pay his own witness costs, and the defendant had agreed to pay the costs of his own witnesses, while DuBois citizens (interested in keeping 'er down) would pay the record costs in the case.

Attorney Miller, private counsel for the prosecutor, then arose and offered a statement for the record in the case in which he said in effect:

"It is agreed upon the part of the prosecutor that further conduct or adjudication of this case be abandoned. It being understood that Mr. Carson agrees that no further prosecution or action will be brought against the city of DuBois or Mr. Jeffrey arising out of this case. Hugh J. Jeffrey also releases and discharges Mr. Carson from any charge or action growing out of this case of Oct. 14, 1921. As private counsel for Carson I ask that the Court direct a verdict of not guilty. I have talked to many DuBois people who are unanimous in the belief that it would be to the benefit of the people of DuBois and in the interest of good public policy if this prosecution could be ended. Both sides met this request in the same spirit. The movement for abandonment came from the people and no consideration was given either side, they being simply influenced to take the step in the interest of the people and good public policy.

In making this recommendation I will say that the testimony already offered would justify the District Attorney and Court to ask for a verdict of not guilty."

District Attorney Arnold then made a brief statement to the effect that he also had talked with many DuBois citizens about this case and had regarded their request. If he was called upon for a private opinion he would give it but officially he would ask for a verdict of not guilty and leave the record in that shape.

Attorney Magiotti exuded a little saliva at this stage of the proceeding after which Judge Bell stated that this was a most peculiar position when the people of the community came to the front in a public matter as a sort of court of last resort. Said he never saw just such expression before, (neither did anybody else, we'll bet) and believe it would be better if people generally would take such action. This prosecution was brought by private counsel and for reasons did not concern the community. The jury has heard the testimony of both principals, both well known, extensively so in DuBois and each had strong body of friends. He had been approached this morning by DuBois people and asked to defer opening of court while this settlement was worked out, being informed no possible verdict would satisfy but one side. The testimony of both principals was equally positive and defendant was presumed to be innocent until proven guilty. Then prosecutor going upon the stand requests abandonment, likewise his private counsel and the District Attorney and he would therefore direct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty. The jury very promptly acceded to the Court's request and the opera bouffe warfare ended in smoke.

Meanwhile may we not ask "what is the matter at DuBois?" And what are her good, bad and indifferent citizens afraid of anyhow? A lot of the men in blouses, more scientifically known as the proletariat, summoned to the proceedings to add weight of numbers to the different sides, silently stole away for the 11:30 B. R. & P. train is the final chapter was being written and are thus no subject to having questioned their reasons, if such they had, for wanting the lid kept on and further prying into DuBois affairs held up.

The taking of testimony in the Jeffrey-Carson case, which has attracted almost one hundred of the yeomen and citizenry of DuBois to the county seat, to note the prosperous appearance of our town of superb High School athletes, was begun at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, following the selection of a jury and the brief "opening" of the case by District Attorney Arnold, who told the jury they expected to prove to them beyond the question of "a reasonable doubt" that

LYTLE BROS.

Special Officer and ex-County Detective

Jeffrey did use undue force and violence upon John J. Carson, when he arrested him on the night of Oct. 14, 1921, and that the officer did take a diamond stud from the prisoner's shirt front and $385 in money from his vest pocket while he was in the lock-up.

The first witness called was Carson himself who told of coming out of Kagi's restaurant and meeting Jeffrey on Long avenue opposite the Central hotel. He said he charged Jeffrey with having told something about him and when the officer called him a vile name he replied "Right back at you," whereupon Jeffrey struck him with his fist, knocking him down; then placing handcuffs upon him beat him with his mace and dragged him off to the lockup where he threw him down and while kneeling on his arms he saw Jeffrey take the stud from his shirt and the $385 from his pocket.

Upon a grilling cross-examination by Attorney Gleason, Carson said he was not drunk and had not taken a drink that night. The questions of the defense attempting to weaken Carson's story and show its falsity were fairly well fenced off by the witness, who was a bit hazy and hid behind "I can't recall" upon many questions affecting the plausibility of his tale and the events preceding and after the alleged assault and robbery.

Mrs. Carson was called and testified that Mr. Carson had his diamond stud in his shirt on the night of October 14th, as she had placed it there herself about 8 p. m. She also saw the $400 roll Carson alleged was paid him between 4 and 5 o'clock of the afternoon of October 14th by John Brown, who was paying for a team.

L. G. Ross, a B. R. & P. engineer, who was with Carson at the time the altercation between Jeffrey and Carson started, corroborated Carson as to the meeting between the two men. He saw no blow struck but did see Carson lying on the sidewalk and Jeffrey putting the handcuffs on him. He saw no mace in Jeffrey's hand, but did know that Carson had his diamond stud in his shirt, "because he generally wore it."

John Brown was called and testified that he paid Carson the $400, of which the alleged missing $385 is a part, on the afternoon of Oct. 14. Brown said he had been paid the money two months before by ex-Senator Tim Kurtz, of Punxsy, for work done in the lumber woods. Brown on cross-examination denied that he had to borrow street car fare from his mother-in-law, Mrs. Dick Berry, in order to get home from DuBois on Oct. 14th. He admitted, however, that he had been arrested and locked up by Jeffrey in January of 1922.

That closed the testimony for the prosecution and court adjourned for the day.

A Successful Man

Among the notable and successful men of this country who achieved great success along strictly legitimate lines was Dr. R. V. Pierce. Devoting his attention to the specialty of women's diseases, he became a recognized authority in that line.

Over fifty years ago this noted physician gave to the world a Prescription which has never been equaled for the weakness of women. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all thru treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backache, headache, weakening pains, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life. Women who take this standard remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic so good that druggists everywhere sell it in both tablet and fluid form.

Sent 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for equal pay. Write for free medical advice.

Curwensville's Own Column

Messrs. Clarence Bunnell and William Proud walked up to the captain's desk Monday evening and deposited the sum of $5.00 each for giving a demonstration of a fist bout on Filbert street last Saturday. Bunnell was awarded the decision after the second round.

August Martira sold a plot or certain piece of ground located on Second street to Zella Mullen, the price paid being the sum of $400.

Squire John Y. Rafferty, of Grampian, visited Curwensville Monday evening in a business way, he having occasion to make affidavit to some important papers before Squire Dale.

George Heitzmuth, a former resident of this town, but for a number of years making his home in DuBois, called on relatives and friends yesterday. He had been up to Grampian for a visit with his brother, Hardman, who has been seriously ill for some weeks.

Miss Margaret Gates, a daughter of the late Blair Gates, was taken to the Clearfield hospital yesterday and operated on for appendicitis. The young lady was stricken very suddenly, compelling immediate attention.

Ira D. Kerns, one of the genuine Curwensville boys, who fought and squibbled with boys from Bendersville (he being a native of Gobbler's Hollow) in his youth, now a resident of Brookport, Pa., was around yesterday shaking hands with the boys, and some ladies also. The "Deacon" had just returned from a two weeks sojourn down Lancaster and Harrisburg way. On his trip he ran into a mess of old Curwensville lads in the persons of Ed, Joe and Harry Etzler.

Miss Stella Buckley, a High School student, is compelled to remain away from her studies on account of illness.

Both the Pennsylvania Hide and Leather company's plant and the shirt and blouse factory shut down at night in order that their employees might attend the funeral of Rush M. Decker yesterday afternoon. Both superintendents are to be commended for this act of respect to the deceased and proves conclusively that Mr. Decker was held in more than ordinary esteem by his fellow workmen who attended the church services in large numbers.

Arrangements for holding the funeral of Rush Montgomery Decker yesterday were changed at the last hour. This was found to be absolutely necessary owing to the fact that Mrs. Decker had been taken with the disease and her condition would not permit the services to be held at the home. The body was conveyed to the Baptist church, where the Pythian order took charge and read a beautiful and impressive ceremony. The large room was filled to capacity with relatives and friends, who with bowed heads and sorrowing hearts took leave of one whom they loved and respected in life.

Since the snow piles on State street have decreased somewhat one can easily see the amount of dirt and filth that has accumulated within the last four months. Where it all hailed from no one seems able to tell accurately, but it is a disgrace to the town nevertheless. It would not be much of a surprise if an epidemic broke out in the community, as there does not seem to be any move made toward removing snow banks or dirt either.

Mrs. Henry Martin is slowly recovering from a six weeks illness.

Shawville.

Dan Divergod is spending a few days in Clearfield visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. Will Rich was shopping in Clearfield Wednesday and Thursday.

Earl Shrey of Clearfield, transacted business here between trains Thursday.

Miss Selva Kephart, daughter of James Kephart of Egypt, has returned home after undergoing a successful operation for appendicitis at the Clearfield hospital.

The annual meeting of Goshen township Road Supervisors will be held at Shawville next Monday, March 5th. Let us refer to the increasing responsibilities thrown upon the men holding this important office who seem to be second to none in this part of the country in view of the ever increasing amount of traffic which is bound to come during the ensuing months of the year. Let us hope that the township officers will appreciate and grant financial aid when and wherever necessary in keeping these worthy gentlemen to safe guard the interests of the traveling public.

Owing to the drifting snow roads are almost impassable, especially for cars. A group of men are reported to be working on the Shawville-Woodland road in an effort to open it for travel.

An engine failure on an N. Y. C. train going east Sunday evening just east of Shawville presented a confusing appearance for a little while owing to the dense volume of traffic sidings being blocked, and crews on West bound trains nearing their 16 hour working limit. A crew was called light out of Clearfield to take the train east and together with the yard pusher they pulled the trains back into Gray siding to allow track to proceed.

The pusher engine afterward taking the disabled engine and crew to Clearfield to make a new start with another engine upon the expiration of 8 hours rest.

They are becoming so plentiful, no doubt being driven in by hunger, that they can be seen most any time within a few hundred feet of the election house. Old hunters are reported to be feeding them salted peanuts and other dainties in an effort to get on better terms with them this coming fall. (We hope Knepp does not see this.)

The Goshen Grange will hold a big supper in their hall at Goshen next Thursday evening, March 1st. All members are requested to be present.

Karhaus.

Mrs. A. B. Maines and daughter Beulah are visiting relatives and friends in Rochester, N. Y.

Lawrence C. Barrett, the Ford salesman from Clearfield, was transacting business here the greater part of the week.

An accident which might have resulted fatally occurred at the public road crossing Thursday of last week. "Chub" Bowes, the pioneer mail carrier from Pine Glen, was coming into town in his fiver, when something happened to the spark gap which withdrew his attention from an approaching freight train and as a result the fiver connected with a car of coal adjoining the engine.

Coudley-Frenchville.

Rymond Billotte, New York Central locomotive fireman of Clearfield, was visiting his mother at Frenchville last Wednesday.

C. J. Mignot of Coudley transacted business in Clearfield last Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Bessie Dougherty of Clearfield spent the past week with her mother, Mrs. Ada Jannot, at Frenchville.

Tuesday reported to the New York Central t. nmaster's office at Clearfield, and successfully passed the signal station operator's examination. He was immediately assigned temporary work on second track at Karhaus station.

Alton Green, the instrumentalist from Coudley, was in Karhaus last Saturday between trains.

John Bergey, a member of the state hospital staff, at Gowanda, N. Y., is visiting his father at his home in Coudley.

On its first visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Leugey of Coudley, the stork left them a big boy baby.

With tons of hay and straw in their barns and still no way to market, the Covington and Girard township farmers will long remember the serious financial handicap which they have suffered, and are still suffering, from the loss of the Deer Creek and Rolling Stone bridges.

These bridges should have been reconstructed months ago, had proper action been taken, immediately after their destruction, but after twenty months of "watchful waiting" and nothing maturing, the citizens of this district finally forward a petition to the Board of Commissioners of Ground and Buildings at Harrisburg, and convinced them of the urgent necessity of these bridges. Action was immediately taken, the contracts awarded, and reconstruction began last September, but owing to the collapse of the substructure at Rolling Stone last December, work was suspended until spring, at which time it will be resumed, and bridges completed at the earliest possible date. This means more "watchful waiting." However it is hoped that the gaps will be closed some time during the early summer.

LeContes Mills Bald Hill.

Q. E. Beauseigneur has started to build an ice cream factory at LeContes Mills. A. B. Bloom has charge of plans and erection and installation of machinery. It is expected the plant will be completed by spring.

It was a sad funeral party that left the home of James Hunter of Wellsboro, Pa., Monday afternoon. It was there that his nephew, Willis Hunter, the lad who met such a tragic death by a kerosene explosion, was buried Wednesday.

Surveyor.

John Shaw, who was severely injured by a fall of rock at Trojan No. 3 mine Thursday, is improving rapidly and hopes are entertained for a complete recovery.

Howard Graham, an employee of Harrison-Walker mines has moved to the home of his father-in-law, Geo. Luzier, at Egypt. There he will reside until his new home close by is completed.

Ralph Shomo, 11-year-old son of Geo. Shomo, while walking on the trestle work of Craft mine tumbled and fell a distance of six feet, breaking his right arm at the elbow.

Friday afternoon, Dr. Lewis was consulted, but he recommended that the boy be taken to Clearfield hospital.

Miss Josephine Diehl, the Craft school teacher is visiting her parents at Bells Landing over the week-end.

Keating.

Walden Burfield of Faunce visited his brother, F. H. Burfield, at Birch Island near here last week.

It is understood the Keystone Light and Power Co. have renewed their option with Thomas Callahan of Keating for a certain tract of land lying between the Sinnemahoning and the Susquehanna rivers for the erection of a large power plant.

That the shopmen's strike still exists, especially on the Renova division of the Pennsylvania railroad, is foretold by their low operating efficiency at the present time. Their power is so badly in need of repair that only passenger trains and local freight make up the day's run. It is said that the B. & P. Ry., upon reaching an agreement with the union last fall, declared a labor shortage and promptly started to hire all the experienced men Renova shops could produce. This alone has caused the Pennsylvania much inconvenience.

Bandit "Big Frank" Watkins Identified; Aged Father Stunned

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 28.—The body of a man known as "Big Frank" Watkins, alleged fugitive from Pittsburgh, who was killed in a gun battle with police was today identified by John Pelquin, aged seventy-three, of Worcester, Mass., as that of his son Peter Pelquin, aged forty-four. The aged man said his son lives at 5422 North Lauder Avenue, Chicago. Pelquin told the authorities that his son left home many years ago and that he was under the impression he was a traveling salesman.

Ape Took Too Much Liberty. It appears that apes understand the action of a lock. One animal in a city "zoo" was taught to unlock his door, and it was amusing to see him choose the right key and let himself out. But the experience taught the keepers never to teach another animal. Twice this creature was found at large in the gardens. He must have opened the doors with tools of his own making.

Two sport models for spring are shown here. The blouse is of wool jersey tubing. The extra fullness is taken in by the diagonal pleat. Dresses and separate skirts as well as blouses have been equipped to take advantage of this seamless material. The dress is made with a wrap around skirt that may be fastened with snaps in town and left to flap around knee-length knickers when its owner is in the country.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SIR NORMAN GREYES, formerly of Scotland Yard, is devoting his time to tracking down an arch criminal of many disguises known to him as MICHAEL SAYERS.

JANET SOAR, maid in Sayers' cottage in England, is in love with her master. She knows that a notice of her arrest will be sent to Michael to his abode.

Sayers, known at the golf club as Mr. Stanfield, plays a game with Sir Norman during which the suspicions of the latter are aroused as to Mr. Stanfield's real identity.

After a three months' vacation, Greyes meets Stanfield in a hotel lobby. An insurance company asks Sir Norman to question a South American widow living at the hotel, regarding a policy of a hundred thousand pounds carried on her remarkable rope of pearls.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

"Have you had any intimation of thieves working in this neighborhood?" I asked him.

"None whatever," he replied. "I will be perfectly frank with you. It is not an ordinary robbery of which we are afraid. For some reason or other, our inquiry department has formed a dubious opinion of Mrs. De Mendosa herself."

"I remarked, 'You are afraid of a fraud.'"

"Precisely! Directly we received the letter from the hotel detective, we rang up the manager here. All that we could learn was that the illness was altogether unexpected, and that the man had been compelled to go home at a moment's notice. In reply to our request that a trained detective might take his place, the management assured us that they considered nothing of the sort necessary. No robbery of jewels had ever taken place from this hotel, and they considered their night porter fully competent to watch over the interests of their guests."

"Sir William Greaves, our manager, desired me to suggest a fee of two hundred guineas," my visitor concluded.

"I will accept the commission," I promised.

The next morning I interviewed the manager of the hotel, to whom was well known. He showed some irritation when I spoke of Mrs. De Mendosa's necklace and her nervousness concerning it.

"To be quite frank with you, I am confessed," although Mrs. De Mendosa is a good client and pays no accounts regularly, I am not to be sorry that we have let her the rooms."

"Why?" I asked.

"People with valuable jewels should accept its possession with a certain resignation," he said.

"This is the last note, I am told, where a jewel robbery would take place. The lady herself I understand takes every possible precaution."

"I am not sure," he said, "that she is except in the restaurant, lounge, and every night she is posted in the hotel itself. If you may rely upon it, I am sure that every facility will be given you in your task. I would advise that you pay a visit to the hotel."

The idea had already occurred to me, and later in the day I was at once invited to the hotel by my card to Mrs. De Mendosa's sitting-room. I found her with her feet, simply dressed, and a look of negligence and weariness on her face.

She turned and smiled at me, and a faint suggestion of a smile on her face. "Noted to the few who saw me," she said.

I introduced myself and found her deprecatingly.

"It is true that I am very foolish," she admitted, "but I have been a ways been a person of my type. I have owned my necklace for some years, and I have had it with me in quite lawless places. I have never, however, felt the same amount of apprehension as I do at the present moment."

She came over to my side, and without unclasping the necklace, let it rest in my hands. The pearls were all marvelously matched all of considerable size and with that milky softness which she pointed out to me as being a proof of their great perfection. As we stood there, necks nearly close together, a wisp of her hair touched my forehead. Some half touched my forehead. Some half touched my forehead. Some half touched my forehead.

"Do you admire my pearls?" she asked softly.

"They are very wonderful," I admitted.

She moved slowly away. I breathed more easily as the distance increased between us. She looked over her shoulder unexpectedly, and I believe that she realized my sensation. The slight frown passed from her forehead. She was obviously more content.

"Tell me how you propose to guard my treasures, Sir Norman?" she inquired.

"I shall be happy to do so," I replied. "Meanwhile—"

She accepted my departure a little unwillingly. I am not a vain man, and I felt inclined to wonder at a certain graciousness of attitude on her part which more than once during our interview had forced itself upon my notice.

Later, about seven o'clock, a note was brought into my room.

Dear Sir Norman,

A lady and her husband who were dining have disappointed me. Can you, by any chance, be my guest? If so, let us meet at eight o'clock in the lounge. Hopely yours, Blanch de Mendosa.

I scribbled a line of acceptance. I felt as I descended into the lounge that evening a premonition that life for the next few hours was going to be very interesting indeed.

At eight o'clock, precisely, Mrs. De Mendosa came into the lounge. She was wearing a white lace evening dress, with an ermine wrap which hung loosely around her, disclosing the pearls underneath. Her entrance made a mild sensation. Mr. Stanfield, who was seated in his accustomed corner, drinking his cocktail, watched our meeting and departed into the restaurant with obvious surprise.

"The little man was there again who stares at me so much—Mr. Stanfield. I think you called him," she remarked as we took our places.

I nodded.

"I don't say," she surprised to see us together," I said, "I asked him who you were, on the night of my arrival here."

"Why?"

"For the same reason that a great many other people ask the same question," I replied.

"She made a little grimace. 'You are determined to pay me no attention this evening, and I am wearing my favorite gown.'"

"I admire your taste," I assured her.

"Anything else?"

"You are the best dressed and the best looking woman in the room."

"Too personal," she said.

"I turned the conversation to the subject of the necklace. The pearls were collected for her, she told me, by her husband, a man in India, who in the Malay States some in Rio. She spoke of him with frankness—a prosperous fruit broker who had achieved sudden opulence."

"It was quite as much a change for me as for him," she remarked. "I was a typist in Buenos Aires before we were married. I have known what it is to be poor."

She answered all my questions without reserve, displaying later on much interest in the recounting of such of my adventures as were published in the papers. I began to feel that I had been mistaken with regard to her that she was really exactly what she seemed—a very wealthy woman of adventurous type suddenly released from matrimonial obligations and a little uncertain what to make of her life. We took our coffee in the lounge at eight. In the background my golfing friend Mr. Stanfield was seated smoking a cigarette in a retired corner and having the air of studying everyone who passed.

ARE YOU RHEUMATIC?

Is it rheumatism?

Not every pain is. Weak kidneys let uric acid collect in the thigh, in the spine, in the back, in the nerves, in the joints, in the muscles, in the blood.

Gout, gravel, dropsy are uric troubles.

When you suspect the kidneys use Doan's Kidney Pills.

The home-recommended remedy. Clearfield testimony is the best proof.

Read this Clearfield man's story: Solomon Kline, 414 Nichols St., says: "I had rheumatic pains in every joint of my body, so I couldn't get around. My hands and feet were so swollen I was practically helpless for three weeks and the different medicines I used did me no good. Finally I started to take Doan's Kidney Pills and they entirely removed all the trouble. I think highly of Doan's."
